LAKE TO RIVER PROJECT MEET HERE JULY 2

Prof. Sherman of O. S. U. To Discuss Possibilities of Erie
To Ohio Canal.

Plans are being pushed for a mass meeting of residents of this city and Pickaway-co next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at the county court house when the proposed Lake Erie to Ohio river canal project will be discussed by Prof. C. E. Sherman, dean of the college of civil engineering of Ohio State University.

Announcement of the meeting next Wednesday was made following a meeting here Thursday afternoon at which R. C. Williams, secretary and manager of the Columbus Waterways association, was present.

OBTAINS DATA
Prof. Sherman has spent much time in obtaining information and making maps to prove the advisability to the army engineers in selecting the central route which will come down the Sandusky and Scioto rivers through Circleville.

The routes would follow the course of the Scioto and the Sandusky rivers, and an immense reservoir would be cut, 10 miles wide, across the valley of the Upper Sandusky river to the Scioto River in Marion-co.

With this canal and immense reservoir flood protection will be afforded along the route and this alone will be of interest to the farmers of Pickaway-co for the floods which come in the spring and summer when the crops are growing will be greatly reduced if not completely eliminated.

MEET SEPTEMBER
The Army engineers will meet in Washington in September to select the route for the canal between the Lakes and the Ohio river and the central route, which will pass through this city, at this time appears to be the favorable route. Much interests is being shown by every city along the route and the meeting called next Wednesday should have a large attendance.

The following citizens met with Mr. Williams Thursday and are arranging for the meeting: C. E. Groce, James I. Smith, E. L. Daley, George P. Foreman, Robert L. Brenner, H. Stanley Lewis and Karl J. Herrmann.

COUNSEL FOR TUBE CO. DIES

Leroy A. Manchester Suicides
By Shooting Two Bullets
Through Head.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 27—Tragedy abruptly interrupted trial of the "billion-dollar lawsuit" over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation today, when Leroy A. Manchester, chief of the Sheet & Tube legal staff committed suicide by firing two bullets into his head.

The suicide took place in Manchester's private offices in the Stambaugh building here just a few minutes before he was due to appear in courtroom No. 3 of common pleas court as an attorney for his concern in the Steel suit. Overwork and mental strain suffered in the strenuous task of fighting the case were believed to have been the cause of the act.

Sold Into Wedlock?

Charging that when she was only 15 her mother sold her into marriage with Casimir Gut, then 67, for a piece of property, and that she could only live with her aged mate one day because he had become too confirmed in his bachelor tendencies, Mrs. Lottie G. Gut, 18, of Chicago, has filed a cross-bill for a divorce.

YOUTHS MUST GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL, EDICT

Judge Brown Suspends E. I. S.
Sentences On Good Behavior of Four Boys.

Harold Rambo and Alfred Smith, who confessed to officers to robbing the home of Lon Starkey on Logan-st., and who later confessed as being implicated in the theft at G. C. Murphy 5 and 10 cent store and at Funk's Groceries, where they obtained fruits, candies and school supplies, were given suspended sentences of an indefinite term in the Boy's Industrial School at Lancaster, O., in a hearing before the Board of County visitors comprised of Mrs. D. V. Courtright, Mrs. Harry Groce, Mrs. E. S. Neuding, T. A. Boyle and Harry Van Riper before Juvenile Judge E. A. Brown Friday. The case of Raymond Dixon and Harold Smith who were arrested at the same time was continued, until an investigation of their cases can be made by the probation officer and juvenile judge.

All the parents of the boys were present at the hearing and all were required by Judge Brown that they send their boy to Sunday School, and that the boys report to probation court every Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m.

The boys were warned that the first time they were taken into custody by officers, they will be immediately taken to the school at Lancaster.

These four boys, all under the age of 16 were arrested and later confessed to numerous thefts throughout the community. When they were arraigned all pleaded guilty with the exception of Dixon who stated that he was not implicated in the Starkey robbery.

CITY TO TREAT STREETS WITH TARVIA LAYER

Service Director Miller Outlines Program at Rotary Meeting Thursday.

A program of improvement to several of Circleville streets through Tarvia coating, which will be started in the near future, was outlined by Service Director L. E. Miller, before the Rotary Club at its weekly meeting Thursday. Tarvia will be used on many of the thoroughfares as a means of permanent repair. Mound-st on both sides of Court-st will be the first to receive this Tarvia treatment, according to Miller.

The street will be repaired from the east corporation to the west corporation limit.

Pickaway-st will be the second to receive this treatment and Washington-st will follow next in line. These two streets will receive treatment from Mound-st to Watt-st.

WORK NECESSARY
Before the Tarvia can be applied, the bad spots in these streets must be treated with oil, and the holes must be sealed.

This process will give the residents of these streets the same facilities that a paved street would provide. Tarvia provides a more quiet highway, according to Miller.

The program of Tarvia-coating the streets of this city will be carried out each year until all the dirt streets will be in perfect condition. The funds for this purpose are obtained from the gasoline tax.

Getting the streets of Circleville in good shape and keeping them that way has been the task of your service director stated Miller.

"We have endeavored to make the streets of Circleville something to be proud of. We know that the oil has been a nuisance to some of the residents of the city but we have tried to put it on so no one is seriously handicapped. There have been times when perhaps too much has been put on some of the streets but this can not always be controlled.

The oil nuisance, if it may be called such, does not last long after the application and then we are through with the dust and the streets get better with each application. With oil on the streets, we have also an application that makes better health, for the air is rid of the dust and the insects cannot live in the oil. Where there is oil, there are not so many insects.

The oil used this year has been heavier with a better asphalt base and tends to seal the streets making a much better foundation.

Rotarians had the pleasure of listening to Louis Jones, noted violinist, formerly of Circleville but now of Cleveland.

Mr. Jones, ably assisted by Miss Abbe Mills Clark, rendered six numbers and his ability was readily recognized by every member present.

Mr. Jones responded to the hearty reception with several encores.

NEW YORK TO FETE AIRMEN

Usual Pomp To Be Lacking At Request of Daring Ireland
To N. Y. Flyers.

NEW YORK, June 27—Elated over their successful flight from Ireland to New York, even though forced to make one stop at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the Southern Cross rested at their hotel here this morning in preparation for the official greeting which the City of New York was to extend to them at 1 o'clock this afternoon. It was to be a comparatively quiet reception, lacking the pomp and hurrah of the Broadway parades that have turned out for Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin and other celebrities. At the request of the flyers—modest men, all of them—the harbor pageant, the triumphal procession up Broadway and other ostentations have been eliminated from the program.

Mrs. Noah Spangler is recovering from an operation on her arm, performed by Dr. Hamilton at Mt. Carmel hospital Columbus. Miss Anna Kirkwood is taking care of her.

The Berger Hospital An Editorial

Opening of the Berger Hospital on Sunday, June 29, brings to a happy realization the dreams of many citizens of Circleville.

For many years it has been the desire of progressive citizens to have a municipal hospital. The benefit of such an institution to a community was well-realized by the late Frank P. Berger, whose will set aside a large sum for this purpose. With this as a guiding force, Circleville citizens voted favorably for a bond issue of $75,000 for the building of the hospital.

And today we have it. There it is, in a perfect setting on N. Pickaway-st. Designed in modern fashion, equipped with the last word in hospital paraphernalia, staffed with thoroughly competent executives and assistants, it becomes a monument to the vision and judgment of Circleville and her people.

Berger Hospital is beautiful as well as practical. Elsewhere in this issue one may read the details of the institution, but let us say here that Berger Hospital far excels in appearance, construction, and equipment nine-tenths of the hospitals found in cities of Circleville's size.

Congratulations to those who chose the style of architecture and who approved the fashioning after the pattern. Congratulations to those who directed the problem of equipment and furnishing of the hospital, with its up-to-date operating room, laboratory, X-ray room. Congratulations to those who furnished various quarters of the institution, each donor catching the spirit and leaving nothing undone to complete the general scheme.

For here we have a real hospital—something that will grow in community value as years go by. A hospital—dear to the heart and scientific mind of every medical practitioner in Pickaway county. A hospital—of untold worth to every family in days to come.

Best of all, a hospital AT HOME. An institution designed scientifically, built perfectly, operated efficiently, at once an institution of which Circleville may well be proud and may well have grounds to shout to the world.

It marks a major step forward. Achievement of the undertaking should cause all of us in this city and county to agree that we're going ahead, progressive, alert, conscious of community spirit, one-for-all and all-for-one.

The Circleville Herald's enthusiasm compels it to remind you once again of the months of toil by those unselfish men who got back of the hospital and brought it to us—ready to minister to the needs of the county. Those doctors, who knew, more than all others, the great necessity for a hospital. Those members of the hospital commission who never tired in their effort to spend wisely every dollar put at their disposal. To Wallace Crist, who as safety director, assumed gladly and willingly the burden of general administration. Those who contributed furniture, fixtures, etc.

And, by all means, those people who recognized the merit of the enterprise, who envisioned the soundness of the project by causing the bond issue to carry at the November 1928 election.

Realization of the dream was not easy.

But, here it is—available to every person. It cost something, to be sure. But, as years pass, Berger Hospital will pay for itself many times over, if not in dollars and cents, then in the hearts and souls of our people.

5 DROWN IN OHIO RIVER

Canoe Capsizes Taking Two,
Motorboat Wave Overtakes
Another Rowboat.

By International News Service
Five Ohio boys were drowned in the Ohio river yesterday at three different points, a tabulation which was made today by International News Service, revealed.

Two youths were drowned near Marietta when their canoe capsized during a small gale. Three companions swam to shore. The dead boys were Charles Chidester, 18, and Ralph Campbell, 15, cousins.

Campbell's body was recovered shortly after the tragedy but county authorities were still searching today for the body of the other victim.

William O'Neill, 10, and Clifford Umstead, 10, both of East Liverpool, drowned near their home when their rowboat was overturned by a wave from a motorboat. Both bodies were recovered several hours later.

The Ohio river also claimed the life of Charles Harris, 14, near Martins Ferry, while he was swimming with several companions. His body was found an hour later.

VIRGINIA HAY BADLY HURT

Well Known Ashville Girl Cut and Bruised in Accident—
In White Cross.

Miss Virginia Hay, 23, of Ashville, bookkeeper of the Farm Bureau, was reported to be in a serious condition in White Cross hospital in Columbus Friday suffering from injuries which she received late Thursday when the automobile in which she was riding with two companions collided with another machine at a Columbus downtown street intersection.

The girl sustained a severely sprained back and serious internal injuries.

E. E. Crist, 23, driver of the car, and William Baker, 24, both of Columbus, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Earl Rower, of Columbus, driver of the other machine was uninjured.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hay of Ashville, and is a niece of John W. Hay of Ashville, Democratic candidate for county commissioner.

MARTIN IMPROVED

The condition of Ferd Martin, E. Main-st., who was injured in an auto wreck last week, is very much improved, and he is now able to sit up, according to his physician, Dr. V. Courtwright.

Samuel Lindsey has returned from a trip to Ironton, O., where he had gone on business.

RESIDENTS OF CITY RECEIVE ESTATE CASH

Seyferts and Mrs. Palm Get
$1,901.78 As Legatees of Hewes Estate.

NEW YORK, June 27—Clara Hewes, 76 year old widow of "Hewes the Magician," former partner of Howard Thurston, the stage magician, and who was an aunt of Max C. and Hulda E. Seyfert of 119 S. Pickaway-st. and Cora Palm of 472 E. Main-st., all three of Circleville, O., left a net estate of $13,313.85 when she was found dead on October 23rd last, a victim of strangulation, according to a transfer tax state appraisal of her property, on file here to-day with Surrogate John P. O'Brien.

Because of her failure to leave a will, this passes over as follows:

Carl R. Seyfert of E. One Hundred and Forty-ninth-st., Paul R. Seyfert of E. Seventh-st., both of Cleveland, O., Vera Bell of 4620 Racine avenue, Chicago, Ill., and Max C., and Hulda E. Seyfert and Cora Palm, nephews and nieces, each $1,901.78.

Edna L. Williams, grandniece, and Cletus Williams, grandnephew, both of 2034 North Higs-st., Columbus, O., each $950.99.

The gross value of the estate left by Mrs. Hewes, who was robbed and then choked to death, amounted to $18,888.82, and consisted of cash on hand, $74; on deposit, with Franklin Savings Bank, $4,354.81; New York Savings Bank, $5,093.26; Union Dime Savings Bank, $4,580.76, and Greenwich Savings Bank, $4,785.99.

The expenses, $5,574.97, as charged up against the gross value of the property, are for the funeral, $563.50; administrator's commissions, $522.22, and creditors, $4,489.25, which includes $2,250 due to Max C. Seyfert.

George H. Fox of 30 Broad-st. here is the administrator of the estate.

Mrs. Hewes was found strangled to death in her four-room apartment at 300 W. 17-st., here and after an all-day search, Edward Moran 12-year-old school boy, confessed that he had killed the aged woman when she awoke from a nap and found him stealing $3 from a money box on her bedside table.

The police said that the boy told them he had choked Mrs. Hewes shortly after noon on Wednesday. During the noon hour he said, he was operating the elevator in place of his father. About 12:15, a woman, whose identity was not disclosed, asked the lad to take her up to the apartment in which Mrs. Hewes lived and where she told fortunes to visitors.

The boy took the caller upstairs to Mrs. Hewes, who was accustomed to leaving the door of her apartment unlocked. They found her asleep and the woman left, after giving Edward 15 cents.

Shortly afterward, the boy left the apartment house to attend his afternoon classes at S. Columbia School, on West Twenty-fifth Street. At the corner of Eighth Street and Eighth Avenue, he told the police, he suddenly got the idea that he could get "easy money" by stealing some money from Mrs. Hewes while she slept.

The police said the boy confessed that he retraced his steps to the Hewes apartment, tiptoed into the bedroom and was in the act of taking a $2 and a $1 bill from a box on a table near her bed when Mrs. Hewes awoke. He related, according to the police, that Mrs. Hewes angrily told him to put the money back then arose from her bed and started to grapple with him. He wrestled with her and after having overpowered her, left the apartment with the $3 in his pockets, the police said. As he departed, he threw a stone through the transom window.

STOUTSVILLE BOY ARRESTED, FREED

James Hickman, 19, Stoutsville, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl Porter and Deputy Miller Fissell on the Stoutsville-pk after the sheriff's office had been notified by the youths' sister that he had gone off with her pocketbook. The deputies took him into custody shortly after he had left Stoutsville and brought him to Circleville where it was learned that he had not spent any of the money, and was later released.

From Gay Night Clubs To Dreary Prison Cell

A hearing will be held into the story of the crash of the brokerage firm of Woody & Co., in which he was a partner. It is said that between five and seven millions dollars were dissipated, thus leading to the collapse of the firm.

FOUR DIE AS TRAIN FALLS INTO STREAM

Twenty-one Persons Injured
When Canadian Tourist
Car Is Derailed.

BULLETIN
TORONTO, June 27—Four persons were killed and 21 injured when a tourist car attached to train number 4 of the Canadian National Railways plunged into the Vermillion river near Sudbury, according to the first word received here today from the scene of the accident.

SUDBURY, Ont., June 27—Rescue crews were dispatched to the Vermillion river west of Capreol today where a tourist car attached to train number 4 of the Canadian Railways plunged into the river last night when the entire train was derailed, according to word reaching here.

A relief train carrying doctors and nurses was dispatched to the scene immediately and the train was en route to help of injured passengers. Wrecking crews began the work of lifting the sunken passenger coach and placing the other derailed coaches back on the track.

An early investigation failed to reveal the cause of the derailment which hurled the entire train from the track with the exception of the engine. The first news of the wreck was carried to Capreol by the engineer who sped there in the locomotive.

The train was en route to help of injured passengers. Wrecking crews began the work of lifting the sunken passenger coach and placing the other derailed coaches back on the track.

YOUTH PLACED ON WRONG BUS, LOST

Kentucky Boy Travels To This City, Sent To Athens By Judge Brown.

"I was put on wrong bus," was the reason McKinley Mattox, 14 year old Newport, Ky. lad gave Judge E. A. Brown when he appeared in probate court Thursday afternoon, stating that he was lost.

The lad had been living with his uncle in Newport, when he received word that his father who works in a mine in Allen, Ky., had been hurt by falling slate and wished his son to come to him.

His uncle had placed him in the hands of an auto driver who was enroute to Circleville instead of Allen, Ky.

He had been put out of the auto at the Scioto river bridge and wandered to the Esmeralda Canning Co., where J. I. Smith informed him to go to the court house. Judge Brown took him to the American Hotel where he put him on a bus, bound for Ashland, Ky., where the lad said he had another uncle living, whom he thought would help him to get to his father.

11 ARE SAVED AS LIGHTNING HITS BIG BOAT

Dynamite-Laden Scow Demolished—Many Blown To Pieces In Disaster.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 27—A lightning bolt from thunder and cloud-ridden skies today had wrought the deaths of 32 men, sent 11 others to a local hospital where they are recovering from their unparalleled experience and completely demolished a large drill scow.

A blinding flash, a deep roar as if the thunder itself had swept down into the St. Lawrence river and then a dense black cloud of smoke and the drill boat, "John E. King" was blown to bits in one gigantic explosion.

43 ABOARD
Forty-three men were aboard the ill-fated craft when the lightning coming with a sharp thunder storm, struck the drills, ran down the steel braces and set off tons of dynamite in the shoals directly under the boat.

Bodies were tossed up into the air like small chips of wood. They were broken and mangled. Many never will be found. Eleven of the crew were rescued from the wind-churned waters of the narrows, which was dotted with bits of wreckage.

The death toll probably would have been greater if the United States coast guard cutter, C. G. 211, with Commander R. M. Rasmussen, of the lower Great Lakes district aboard, had not been hovering near. The boat hove to and picked up the 11 survivors, who were clinging to planks and other buoyant pieces of debris.

FLASH, CRASH
Other coast guard cruisers and river craft slowly plied back and forth across the scene today in a search for bodies while the Canadian government launched its official investigation.

R. A. McNeill, of Brockville, day foreman aboard the drilling ship, declared there was no warning given. The lightning had struck with the proverbial quickness.

"The bottom of the boat seemed to go from under me," said McNeill. "The next thing I know is that I found myself in the water clinging to some plank."

Two women, Mrs. G. A. Clarke, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. W. C. Walklate, of Brockville, who were seated on the porch of their summer cottage near the scene, are believed to be the only eye witnesses.

BOAT WAS GONE

They said that there was a deafening explosion and then a black cloud of smoke. When the smoke was cleared away by the wind of the summer thunder shower, the John E. King was gone, they said.

The drill boat was the largest of its kind in Canada. From stern to prow it measured 140 feet.

Some of the crew were reported to have been sleeping in their bunks when the tragedy occurred. They either were blown to bits or were drowned.

A dog, King, w/o had been awarded a medal by the humane society of the United States for saving the life of Jack Wylie, a member of the crew, was also counted among those lost. Wylie also is believed to have been killed in the blast.

MEXICO HAS PARTY FIGHT

EL PASO, Texas, June 27.—Federal troops were rushed into the state of Chihuahua, Republic of Mexico, after a political coup d'etat by Manuel Prieto, gubernatorial aspirant, that resulted in the death of one person, the injury of two others, and the establishment of two capitals in the province.

The defeated Prieto faction yesterday, raided the government palace at Chihuahua City and assumed control of state affairs there when Governor Francisco Almada fled to Juarez, on the American border.

Gabriel Jimenez, chief of the Chihuahua state police, was killed and two other officers were wounded in the battle.

Immediately following the coup, Manuel Jesus Estrada was named governor of the state by the victorious forces at Chihuahua City. While Governor Almada, safe in the stronghold of his faction at Juarez, established his government there.

Both factions claimed to be in control today.

20 KILLED IN BOLIVIA RIOT

BUENOS AIRES, June 27.—Twenty persons were dead and at least 100 wounded as the result of a serious political disturbance at La Paz, Bolivia, it was reported in dispatches here.

The casualties took place Sunday, the reports stated, when police broke up a mass meeting in one of the principal streets in La Paz. A number of women and children were among those killed or injured, the reports declared.

The corpses of the victims were paraded through the streets by the demonstrators, it was said.

Keeping Young

As I approve of a youth that has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man that has something of the youth. He that follows this rule may be old in body, but can never be old in mind.—Cicero.

Some of the employers who are refusing to hire men over 40 might be asked what they would do about the Supreme Court if they were Uncle Sam. Especially Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who has just passed 89, and is considered by many lawyers as the most useful man on the bench.

That New Jersey primary suggests the startling theory that maybe the Literary Digest's poll was right again.

Why doesn't somebody make a book out of Jake Lingle, the murdered Chicago reporter who knew everybody and everything and never wrote anything?

WASHINGTON, June 27—Interpreted as a hopeful factor in the revival of business was an announcement of Secretary of Commerce Lamont today that employment in retail stores through the United States in April was slightly in excess of the same month last year, when business was booming.

Returns furnished to Lamont as a result of the census of distribution from 440,000 separate establishments, located in 47 states, showed they employed 388,424 this spring, as compared with 387,034 last April. The stores tabulated included 41,446 independent stores and 2,520 units of chain stores and large department stores.

"They represented all kinds of business, and various types of organizations, including single stores, local branch systems, local chains, national chains and some large department stores," Lamont said.

The schedules showed these establishments employed 384,236 in July, 1929; 405,572 in October and 405,265 in December, indicating what is probably the normal seasonal fluctuation through the calendar year.

The returns showed that the large stores employed a heavy proportion of part-time employees during December, amounting to as much as 40 percent of the total in retail establishments of this type, whereas the smaller stores employed less than 10 percent of part-timers.

Lamont added:

"A special analysis of returns from 2,169 large independent stores and chain stores in the general merchandise field shows that out of a total of 81,401 employees as of April 15, 1929, there were 55,470 full-time employees and 25,931 part-time workers. These same stores report 85,494 employees for April this year, of which 62,814 were full-time and 22,680 were part-time, indicating growth in full-time employment as compared with last year."

An analysis of 11,500 small retail stores averaging less than 3 employees each, situated in 22 large cities, believed to be fairly representative of the entire country, showed a total of 29,025 employees this spring, as compared with 28,696 at about the same time last year.

A study of returns from approximately 5,000 stores located in rural districts and towns less than 10,000 population shows 12,887 total employees this spring as compared with 12,907 last spring.

BREAD AND BUTTER PLUS

"More culture is needed in higher education in America," says a leader at the college students' convention. "We need more philosophy, art and literature for an adequate background for life, and even for such practical subjects as economics and engineering and meat-packing and business administration. A lot of our American schools are no longer colleges, but just high-class technical schools."

"Practical" subject have been too much emphasized the last 10 years, he insists, and the classics have been too much neglected. Many students agree. Many parents, remembering old standards, also agree.

"Bread-and-butter education" is not enough, it is true now, as it always has been, that "man shall not live by bread alone."

TAX STRIKE

Illinois is said to be threatened by a taxpayers' strike. A state taxpayers' league declares that if the next tax bills are as confiscatory as those received recently, the members will all refuse to pay them.

That might get the tax strikers into trouble, but would make still more trouble for the state and the institutions dependent on public income.

The critics complain particularly of unjust valuations fixed by "irresponsible persons" and subject to political influences.

This evil may be worse in Illinois, and especially in Cook County, than in most localities. But tax burdens today are widespread and oppressive. It is a good time to make sure of fair assessments. It is also a good time for public economy. If taxes continue rising in a period of falling incomes, there may be an epidemic of taxpayers' strikes.

COLORED HUB CAPS

Most of us think American automobiles are pretty good. At any rate, they are the best in the world market. And great progress has been made in the last few years. Yet William B. Stout, manufacturer and engineer, who knows both airplanes and autos, warns an automotive gathering:

"I wonder if we have forgotten that we should be designing automobiles for the public and not for the sales department. I wonder if the sales departments have not lost their vision as to who should design these cars."

He thinks "transportation" is being ignored in favor of "swank." Engineering yields to art. Looks are treated as more important than mechanical functioning. Much could be learned, he suggests, from the airplane industry.

He suggests especially lighter cars, air-cooled motors and structural changes which would make a car a true unit instead of dividing it into chassis and body with too little space for passengers. Possibly these things are really more important than new color schemes and bigger hub caps.

INCOME TAXES

Secretary Mellon, while expressing himself as "not unhelpful" respecting future business developments, has warned the nation that if the present reduced rate of the federal income tax is applied to 1930 incomes, there will be a big government deficit next year. He estimates that deficit at $180,000,000.

Further deficits are threatened by other legislation.

It is a good time for thrift, public as well as private.

As far as personal income taxes are concerned, with our system of tax rates rising with the rise of income, a high rate in dull times may impose less hardships than taxpayers expect, because with reduced income so many of them escape the upper bracket rates.

The psychological effects of tax rates, however, are great, and may be out of proportion to the pecuniary effects. So the rate cut allowed this year should be continued if possible.

It might be made easier by making less provision in the federal budget for retiring the national debt. We don't have to return to war bonds so fast as we've been doing.

LOOKS LIKE A SHORT TRIP

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

ON the eve of her marriage to Rodney Sayre, Emily Duane disappears. She had left her Hilldale Park home, "Knollwood," to visit the hospital, but never reached there. Foul play is feared when Jim Pennington reports his wife, Pauline, and Emily's best friend, also missing. Pennington says he left his wife at the ravine, a short distance from the Duane home. When he returned she had vanished.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

"YOU poor man!" exclaimed Betty. "How do you get along? You come over here for meals until the new cook comes."

Pennington smiled at her ready hospitality. "Thank you," he said, "but we'll manage. Polly is efficient, you know, and the chauffeur's wife is cooking for us. They live over the garage and she's a good cook—but my domestic arrangements cannot interest you," he said to Lawlor.

"Then as far as I can see," the detective seemed to come out of a brown study, "those two women disappeared within a few moments of one another. It isn't logical to suppose their absences are entirely disconnected."

"And yet," Chief Jennings interposed, "if they had been together when it happened, I mean whatever happened, accident or anything—one of them could have brought back the news."

"You're predicating something along the lines of a sprained ankle or broken leg," Pete Gibby declared. "Now, that isn't a probable explanation at all!"

"Indeed!" said Lawlor. "Just what is your notion of a probable explanation?"

"That the two of them were abducted or kidnaped by men of evil intent."

"Abductions of grown people are not often heard of," Lawlor began.

"Disappearances of well-to-do young women are not, either," Pete told him. "But there is a system of abductions."

"Oh, Pete, shut up!" Rodney cried out, as one in agony. "Do shut up, I can't stand everything!"

"Go on," urged Pennington. "What do you mean? If there's a theory, however awful, let us have it!"

"Were these ladies wearing conspicuous jewelry?" Lawlor asked, suddenly.

"No," Pennington began, but Gibby interrupted.

"Yes, Miss Duane was. She was on a diamond necklace that Mr. Sayre gave her for a wedding present."

"Ah," and Lawlor looked like a man who had discovered all. "That's it, then."

"What's it?" demanded Sayre.

"Suppose robbers did take that necklace, where are the two girls? You can't assume that they hid it and died of it, can you?"

"Why not?" said Lawlor calmly. "You have hunted and searched for two live women, but no search has been made for dead ones."

"Look here, Mr. Lawlor," said Pennington. "I understand your theory, and I would be glad to hear it, but I don't want to be a party to a thing that is a waste of time. Have you no common sense for the future of this case?"

"Have you not even the common decency to speak a little less arrogantly?"

dead or alive. We dare not wait till morning. It's all very well to say that if one had been hurt or maimed the other could come to tell us. They may both be hurt, dying, even, and here we sit, palavering over the matter!"

"But what can we do in the dark, Mr. Sayre?" asked Lawlor, a little petulantly. "I think we must wait for daylight."

"You may, but I shan't," said Rodney, with determination. "Do you suppose I could go to bed? Or Mr. Pennington, either? No, we will go on another search. Any-

"He climbed down and, well, sir—he found it was Mrs. Pennington—dead."

thing is better than inaction. If you as officials want to organize and conduct a hunt, all right. If not, it must be amateur."

"Good for you, Mr. Sayre," said Everett, Crabbe, heartily. "I'm with you, for one."

Pennington, Lamb and Pete Gibby merely nodded their heads in the foregone conclusion of acquiescence, and they began to rise.

"Now, now," said Jennings, "don't act like a lot of hot-headed youngsters! Of course, the police will conduct this search. Of course, we'll have horses and men to look for them. But we're not to be outside help besides. We're not to be a hindrance. We're not to be a certain amount of system and method, which seems not to occur to you."

"You're right," and Pennington looked at him with anxious eyes. "I too, want to rush right out and scour the land over, but perhaps a little organization would make for greater success. We're not to be a hindrance. We're not to be a certain amount of system and method, which seems not to occur to you."

"And then there were some more questions asked and answered and soon the policemen went away, promising to conduct the search with promptness and despatch."

"That's all right," Pennington said, after they had left. "But all the same you've got me stirred up for your awful suggestions, and I've got to go out and hunt, my dear. You see, the idea of Emily's disappearance is a new one for me. It was due to you, you know, and if those two girls and start over toward the hospital, which is the only thing

Sayre followed the butler to the dining room and then to the back hall.

Here Mr. Jennings stood, looking alarmed and excited.

"I thought I'd better tell you first, sir," he said. "We were going back to the station to get the search party into shape, when, as we crossed the bridge over the ravine, Sergeant Murdoch noticed the rail was broken away."

"Which ravine?"

"The little one, sir. And he had a powerful flashlight, and he turned it down over the rail, and far below, we could see what looked like a huddled-up body. So Murdoch—he can climb like a monkey—he climbed down and—well, sir, he found it was Mrs. Pennington—dead."

"Are you sure?" said Sayre, for lack of anything else to say.

He looked black and dazed, as one does on hearing a piece of news that nearly stuns him.

"Yes, sir," Jennings said. "I've told Mr. Pennington. Is he here yet?"

"Yes, he's here. He was just about to go home. Call Mr. Lamb out here, Prall."

Burton Lamb came, and saw with surprise the returned policeman.

"What have you found?" he asked and Jennings told him.

"Will you tell Mr. Pennington?" Sayre said.

"Good Lord, I can't! But yes, I will. And we must tell him the news, Jennings."

Outdoor Play

a Factor in Child's Life

Authority Warns, However, Against Overfatigue Caused by Natural Tendency of Children to Try to Excel.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health
New York City.

PLAY, at its best, is healthful activity, relaxation and fun. Every child should alternate the hours of study and work with periods of play. It is good for body and spirit.

Play is one of the greatest factors in making a boy grow into a man of strength, action and good health. It develops a girl into a woman of poise, grace and vigor.

The right sort of play gives to a child right control of bodily movements. It helps in coordination of mind and body. It aids in developing the breathing and other functions of the body.

Moderate exercises for a child are excellent in his daily plan of activities, but they should be carefully supervised. The only exercises good for a young child are those taken without undue fatigue. Good, healthy normal tiredness is a good thing, but real fatigue is altogether another thing. To learn how to breathe properly, how to relax, how to acquire suppleness and poise of body, and how to coordinate brain and body movement are only a few of the benefits derived from his play and exercise.

A child who takes morning gymnastic exercises should so without haste or hurry. He should stay well within his limits of endurance. Few children do this by themselves. He must be watched and guided. It is only natural for a child to try to excel, to give his greatest strength, to run and jump farther than the others, and make a good showing in competitive games.

Group games have a decided tendency to moral reaction. Group play shows up the child who plays or exercises seldom, or one who plays badly. It shows whether his development is below normal.

Adjustments are easy to make at this time. It is here that a tactful leader of a group can bring out the best in the character of a child. It is remarkable what can be done for the child in keeping him out of doors in the fresh air and sunshine. Let him play free, unhindered, and the results will be far beyond your expectation.

Most of the children's games have been handed down from antiquity. Spinning the top, skipping rope, rolling a hoop, playing ball, as shown on the frescoes of the ruins of Pompeii, were all games of long ago.

A child develops dexterity, skill and grace of movement from such exercise. The chief thing to look out for is over-fatigue. It is very easy for a young child to go beyond his strength.

To have a sound mind in a sound body is the birthright of every child. Let him be natural and unhampered in his play. Insist on his having long hours in the sunshine, as well as plenty of rest and sleep.

To understand and appreciate the great influence of the out-of-doors and sunshine on high spirits and good health, we have only to watch a group of wan-faced waifs from the city who come to play on the seashore, or in some vacation spot. The cries of joy and happiness of the children at play are open to suggestive of future days of well-being and robust health. Child health is of paramount importance and no good thing should be overlooked in the health-building process.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Thrills are the breath of life to Buck Jones. This ace of adventure stars thinks no more of making a perilous leap across a thousand-foot deep canyon on his jumping steed, Silver, than the average man does of sitting down to a game of dominoes. It's all in a day's work to him, and when he buckles on his spurs he's ready for anything from a revolution to a trip down the crater of a volcano—provided he can make it on a horse.

However, Buck, who is starred in "The Lone Rider," the Columbia all-talking outdoor action-drama which comes to the Metropolitan Theatre on Friday and Saturday, didn't by any means acquire all his daredevil nonchalance in a day. He's been courting thrills and hazards all his life. True, he started his career serenely enough as a mechanic in the little town of Vincennes, Indiana, but he soon chucked that orthodox employment to go cow-punching in Montana. That's when the urge entered his soul—for he discovered that he liked to ride better than do anything else in the world.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The talking-picture debut of Lawrence Tibbett, internationally known Metropolitan opera star, will take place at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday in "The Rogue Song," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Lionel Barrymore and filmed entirely in Technicolor.

The picture, the first approach to an operatic film, is considered to be one of the most important productions of the year and entailed elaborate preparations. The scenario, based upon the opera, "Gypsy Love," was written by Frances Marion with dialogue by John Colton of "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture" fame and music by Franz Lehar and Herbert Stothart. The lyrics are the work of Clifford Grey. Besides Tibbett's songs, the musical innovations of the production include an aria sung by Elsa Alsen, Wagnerian soprano, with a women's chorus and numbers sung by Wallace Macdonald accompanied by a large male chorus.

AT THE GRAND

"The Drake Case" will thrill crowds at the Grand Theatre Friday and Saturday night with its gripping suspense and mystery. Thrills, chills and legitimately dramatic surprises squeezed into one picture that you would be surprised to see.

Gladya Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Frazer and Barbara Leonard play the leading roles in this feature.

Mrs. Ferd N. Pickens visited her mother, Mrs. Charles Reichelderfer in Columbus Thursday afternoon.

A. V. Osborne, agent at the Norfolk and Western Railroad returned home Friday from Virginia Beach, Va., where he has been spending a vacation the past week.

Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Madeline Russell motored to Columbus, Thursday and were accompanied home by Mrs. Charles E. Groce who has been visiting in Toledo and Port Huron.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

ON the eve of her marriage to Rodney Sayre, Emily Duane disappears. She had left her Hilldale Park home, "Knollwood," to visit the hospital, but never reached there. Poul play is feared when Jim Pennington reports his wife, Pauline, and Emily's best friend, also missing. Pennington says he left his wife at the ravine, a short distance from the Duane home. When he returned she had vanished.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

"YOU poor man!" exclaimed Betty. "How do you get along? You come over here for meals until the new cook comes."

Pennington smiled at her ready hospitality.

"Thank you," he said, "but we'll manage. Polly is efficient, you know, and the chauffeur's wife is cooking for us. They live over the garage and she's a good cook—but my domestic arrangements cannot interest you," he said to Lawlor.

"Then as far as I can see," the detective seemed to come out of a brown study, "those two women disappeared within a few moments of one another. It isn't logical to suppose their absences are entirely disconnected."

"And yet," Chief Jennings interposed, "if they had been together when it happened, I mean whatever did happen, accident or anything—one of them could have brought back the news."

"You're predicating something along the lines of a strained ankle or broken leg," Pete Gibby declared. "Now, that isn't a probable explanation at all!"

"Indeed!" said Lawlor icily. "Just what is your notion of a probable explanation?"

"That the two of them were abducted or kidnaped by men of evil intent."

"Abductions of grown people are not often heard of," Lawlor began.

"Disappearances of well-to-do young women are not, either," Pete told him. "But there is a system of abductions."

"Oh, Pete, shut up!" Rodney cried out, as in agony. "Do shut up, I can't stand everything!"

"Go on," urged Pennington. "What do you mean? If there's a theory, however awful, let us have it."

"Were these ladies wearing conspicuous jewelry?" Lawlor asked, suddenly.

"No," Pennington began, but Gibby interrupted.

"Yes, Miss Duane was. She had on a diamond necklace that Mr. Sayre gave her for a wedding present."

"Aha," and Lawlor looked like a man who has discovered all. "That's it, then."

"What's it?" demanded Sayre. "Suppose robbers did take that necklace, where are the two girls? You can't assume that they killed them and disposed of their bodies in this short time."

"Why not?" said Lawlor calmly. "You have hunted and searched for two live women, but no search has been made for dead ones."

"Look here, Mr. Lawlor," said Burton Lamb. "I understand your interest and your desire for action, but need you be quite so bluntly definite? Have you no consideration for the feelings of those near and dear to the missing ladies? Have you not even the common decency to speak a little less crudely?"

"I thought you wanted police work done," Lawlor said, sulking. "I'm not in the habit of mincing words."

"Let him alone, Burt," Sayre said. "Neither Pennington nor myself cares how he expresses his fears. We're all apprehensive that a severe accident or sudden death has wrought this tragedy, and the sooner we begin real investigations the better. I propose that searching parties be organized at once, police, neighbors, volunteers, anybody who can look for the girls."

"He climbed down and, well, sir—he found it was Mrs. Pennington—dead."

thing is better than inaction. If you as officials want to organize and conduct a hunt, all right. If not, it must be amateur."

"Good for you, Mr. Sayre," said Everett Craven, heartily. "I'm with you, for one."

Pennington, Lamb and Pete Gibby merely nodded their heads in the foregone conclusion of acquiescence, and they began to rise.

"Now, now," said Jennings, "don't act like a lot of hot-headed youngsters! Of course, the police will conduct this search. Of course, we'll have posse and we'll do whatever we can and call in outside help besides. We're not lukewarm in this matter, as you seem to think, but it does require a certain amount of system and method, which seems not to occur to you."

"You're right," and Pennington looked at him with anxious eyes. "I, too, want to rush right out and scour the land over, but perhaps a little organization would make for greater success."

"That's the talk," and Jennings nodded approval.

And then there were some more questions asked and answered and soon the policemen went away, promising to conduct the search with propriety and despatch.

"That's all right," Pennington said, after they had left. "But all the same you've got me stirred up with your awful suggestions, and I've got to go out and hunt, myself. You see, the idea of Emily's necklace puts a new face on it all. It was dusk, you know, and if those two girls did start over toward the hospital, which is the only thing

Sayre followed the butler to the dining room and then to the back hall.

Here Mr. Jennings stood, looking alarmed and excited.

"I thought I'd better tell you first, sir," he said. "We were going back to the station to get the search party into shape, when, as we crossed the bridge over the ravine, Sergeant Murdoch noticed the rail was broken away."

"Which ravine?"

"The little one, sir. And he had a powerful flashlight, and he turned it down over the rail, and far below, we could see what looked like a huddled-up body. So Murdoch—he can climb like a monkey—he climbed down and—well, sir, he found it was Mrs. Pennington—dead."

"Are you sure?" said Sayre, for lack of anything else to say.

He looked blank and dazed, as one does on hearing a piece of news that nearly stuns him.

"Yes, sir," Jennings said. "Will you tell Mr. Pennington? Is he here yet?"

"Yes he's here. He was just about to go home. Call Mr. Lamb out here, Prall."

Burton Lamb came, and saw with surprise the returned policeman.

"What have you found?" he said and Jennings told him. "Will you tell Jim Pennington?" Sayre said.

"Good Lord, I can't! But yes, I will. And we must tell him at once. Who's left there on the scene, Jennings?"

Outdoor Play a Factor in Child's Life

Authority Warns, However, Against Overfatigue Caused by Natural Tendency of Children to Try to Excel.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

PLAY, at its best, is healthful activity, relaxation and fun. Every child should alternate the hours of study and work with periods of play. It is good for body and spirit.

Play is one of the greatest factors in making a boy grow into a man of strength, action and good health. It develops a girl into a woman of poise, grace and vigor.

The right sort of play gives to a child right control of bodily movements. It helps in coordination of mind and body. It aids in developing the breathing and other functions of the body.

Moderate exercises for a child are excellent in his daily plan of activities, but they should be carefully supervised. The only exercises good for a young child are those taken without undue fatigue. Good, healthy normal tiredness is a good thing but real fatigue is altogether another thing. To learn how to breathe properly, how to relax, how to acquire suppleness and poise of the body, and how to coordinate brain and body movement are only a few of the benefits derived from his play and exercise.

A child who takes morning gymnastic exercises should do so without haste or hurry. He should stay well within his limits of endurance. Few children do this by themselves. He must be watched and guided. It is only natural for a child to try to excel, to give his greatest strength, to run and jump farther than the others, and make a good showing in competitive games.

Group games have a decided tendency to moral reaction. Group play shows up the child who plays or exercises seldom, or one who plays badly. It shows whether his development is below normal.

Adjustments are easy to make at this time. It is here that a father leads a group can bring out the best in the character of a child.

It is remarkable what can be done for the child in keeping him out-of-doors in the fresh air and sunshine. Let him play free, unhindered, and the results will be far beyond your expectation.

Most of the children's games have been handed down from antiquity. Spinning the top, skipping rope, rolling a hoop, playing ball, as shown on the frescoes of the ruins of Pompeii, were all games of long ago.

A child develops dexterity, skill and grace of movement from such exercise. The chief thing to look out for is over-fatigue. It is very easy for a young child to go beyond his strength.

To have a sound mind in a sound body is the birthright of every child. Let him be natural, and unhampered in his play. Insist on his having long hours in the sunshine, as well as plenty of rest and sleep.

To understand and appreciate the great influence of the out-of-doors and sunshine on high spirits and good health, you have only to watch a group of wan-faced waifs from the city who come to play on the sea shore, or in some vacation spot. The cries of joy and happiness of the children at play in the open is suggestive of future days of well-being and robust health. Child health is of paramount importance and no good thing should be overlooked in the health-building process.

Theatres

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Thrills are the breath of life to Buck Jones. This ace of adventure stars thinks no more of making a perilous leap across a thousand-foot deep canyon on his jumping steed, Silver, than the average man does of sitting down to a game of dominoes. It's all in a day's work to him, and when he buckles on his spurs he's ready for anything from a revolution to a trip down the crater of a volcano—provided he can make it on a horse.

However, Buck, who is starred in "The Lone Rider," the Columbia all-talking outdoor action-drama which comes to the Metropolitan Theatre on Friday and Saturday, didn't by any means acquire all his daredevil nonchalance in a day. He's been courting thrills and hazards all his life. True, he started his career serenely enough as a mechanic in the little town of Vincennes, Indiana, but he soon chucked that orthodox employment to go cow-punching in Montana. That's when the urge entered his soul—for he discovered that he liked to ride better than do anything else in the world.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The talking-picture debut of Lawrence Tibbett, internationally known Metropolitan opera star, will take place at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday in "The Rogue Song," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Lionel Barrymore and filmed entirely in Technicolor.

The picture, the first approach to an operatic film, is considered to be one of the most important productions of the year and entailed elaborate preparations. The scenario, based upon the opera, "Gypsy Love," was written by Frances Marion with dialogue by John Colton of "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture" fame and music by Franz Lehár and Herbert Stothart. The lyrics are the work of Clifford Grey. Besides Tibbett's songs, the musical innovations of the production include an aria sung by Elsa Alsen, Wagnerian soprano, with a women's chorus and numbers sung by Wallace Macdonald accompanied by a large male chorus.

AT THE GRAND
"The Drake Case" will thrill crowds at the Grand Theatre Friday and Saturday night with its gripping suspense and mystery. Thrills, chills and legitimately dramatic surprises squeezed into one picture that you would be surprised to see.

Gladys Brockwell, Forrest Stanley, Robert Frazier and Barbara Leonard play the leading roles in this feature.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Warner and son of Columbus have returned home from a trip through Smoky Mts. and a visit here with her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Neff of E. Union-st.

Mrs. Ferd N. Pickens visited her mother, Mrs. Charles Reichelderfer in Columbus Thursday afternoon.

A. V. Osborne, agent at the Norfolk and Western Railroad returned home Friday from Virginia Beach, Va., where he has been spending a vacation the past week.

Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Madeline Bussell motored to Columbus, Thursday and were accompanied home by Mrs. Charles E. Groce who has been visiting in Toledo and Port Huron.

IN AND ABOUT THE STATE HOUSE

A Department of News Service and Cooperation for Herald Readers

NEW REPORT ISSUED

The semi-annual report of the Ohio Division of Feeds and Fertilizers, D. M. Odaffer Chief, for the last half of 1929, is now ready for the public. Those interested in feed stuffs, commercial fertilizers and agricultural lime and limestones, can secure these books free on request to the Department of Agriculture, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus.

HELPFUL HINTS

Chief Odaffer says that dealers in feeds and fertilizers should assure themselves that goods they handle are licensed, and thus relieve themselves of responsibility under the laws.

He also advises that various articles for analyzing be not sent to his division before writing — and this includes feed suspected of having an ill effect on poultry and animals, which happens very seldom. Send samples of soil for analysis to the Soils Department, and insects to Entomology Department, Ohio State University, Columbus. For information about poultry, to the Division of Poultry Husbandry, Ohio State University, or your county agent or Smith-Hughes teacher.

PHEASANT DAMAGE (?)

A few reports have drifted in to the Conservation Division of damage done to newly planted corn in northern sections of the state. In this connection a game protector reported that a pheasant recently killed by an auto was examined and was found to have eaten nothing but cut worms. "In many instances these birds, feeding in corn fields, investigate the roots and stalks of young corn and, while doing some little damage, prove of valuable assistance to the farmer in removing worms and insect life that would in a short time ruin a large portion of a corn crop," declares a Conservation official.

FAIR RULING

Attorney Gilbert Bettman recently ruled that, in counties having a county agricultural society that owns the fair grounds, the county commissioners may improve the fair grounds by installing lighting equipment or contribute a portion of the cost of such installation, if the commissioners believe such action is for the best interests of the county.

Bettman held, also, that funds appropriated by a board of county commissioners for the benefit of a county agricultural society are in the control of the county commissioners and should be spent by the county and not appropriated in a lump sum for the benefit of such society. The society, according to the attorney general, should not be permitted to use and distribute the funds as the society saw fit.

LANDS HUGE FISH

T. G. Patterson of Richmondale landed a 54 1-2 pound shovel-head catfish from the Scioto river just below Richmondale recently, the largest fish taken from the stream this year and one of the largest taken in the region in recent years.

OHIO TREES GO EAST

Forty-four elm trees, each about 10 inches in diameter, were shipped from Geauga County to the manufacturing district of Point Breeze, Maryland, near Baltimore, where they will provide shade and beauty in a factory district. The trees made the journey from Chardon to the east on flat railroad cars 50 feet long.

Eighteen men, under the supervision of G. S. Williamson, of a tree service company of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., extracted the trees. The equipment for the work alone cost more than $2,000.

This work led to what is believed a new record in railroadng. For when the trees were ready to be transported to Maryland, and loaded aboard the cars, it was discovered that wood, in its original state was unlisted in railroad tariff books. It is believed that this is the first time in the history of modern transportation that trees have been shipped.

So favorable do eastern manufacturers regard the experiment with Geauga county elms, that they are planning to remove 300 more of them for similar purposes.

Gorilla Not Tall

The adult male gorilla is from 5 to 6 feet high in its natural attitude, although after death it may be stretched beyond this. Most specimens are under 6 feet, on account of the relative shortness and generally fixed position of the legs.

Scholar's Rise to Fame

Prof. Joseph Wright, emeritus professor of comparative philology at Oxford university, who died at the age of seventy-four, began his career at six, driving a donkey.

Fashion Revue To Be Staged On July 2, 3

Next Wednesday and Thursday, July 2 and 3 are the dates set for the Greater Circleville Fashion and Beauty Revue.

In this revue local girls will model the latest style creations for local merchants and also help bring the City of Circleville forward to the extent that one of their number will be called upon to represent this city at the State Beauty Pageant to be held at Russell's Point.

The management of the Cliftona Theatre is making arrangements for a large runway to extend out into the audience that the models will parade on, also to take care of the large audiences that will be on hand to greet the local girls who will act as models. Ohio will be the last state to hold its pageant before the International Pageant of Pulchritude is held at Galveston, Texas, where the winners of each state will compete against the foreign beauties.

Local interest will run high in hopes that the young lady chosen as Miss Circleville will be able to compete at Galveston.

IN AND ABOUT THE STATE HOUSE

A Department of News Service and Cooperation for Herald Readers

NEW REPORT ISSUED

The semi-annual report of the Ohio Division of Feeds and Fertilizers, D. M. Odaffer Chief, for the last half of 1929, is now ready for the public. Those interested in feed stuffs, commercial fertilizers and agricultural lime and limestones, can secure these books free on request to the Department of Agriculture, Ohio-Hartman Building, Columbus.

HELPFUL HINTS

Chief Odaffer says that dealers in feeds and fertilizers should assure themselves that goods they handle are licensed, and thus relieve themselves of responsibility under the laws.

He also advises that various articles for analyzing be not sent to his division before writing — and this includes feed suspected of having an ill effect on poultry and animals, which happens very seldom. Send samples of soil for analysis to the Soils Department, and insects to Entomology Department, Ohio State University, Columbus. For information about poultry, to the Division of Poultry Husbandry, Ohio State University, or your county agent or Smith-Hughes teacher.

PHEASANT DAMAGE (?)

A few reports have drifted in to the Conservation Division of damage done to newly planted corn in northern sections of the state. In this connection a game protector reported that a pheasant recently killed by an auto was examined and was found to have eaten nothing but cut worms. "In many instances these birds, feeding in corn fields, investigate the roots and in-stalks of young corn and, while doing some little damage, prove of valuable assistance to the farmer in removing worms and insect life that would in a short time ruin a large portion of a corn crop," declares a Conservation official.

FAIR RULING

Attorney Gilbert Bettman recently ruled that, in counties having a county agricultural society that owns the fair grounds, the county commissioners may improve the fair grounds by installing lighting, equipment or contribute a portion of the cost of such installation, if the commissioners believe such action is for the best interests of the county.

Bettman held, also, that funds appropriated by a board of county commissioners for the benefit of a county agricultural society are in the control of the county commissioners and should be spent by the county and not appropriated in a lump sum for the benefit of such society. The society, according to the attorney general, should not be permitted to use and distribute the funds as the society saw fit.

LANDS HUGE FISH

T. G. Patterson of Richmondale landed a 54 1-2 pound shovel-head catfish from the Scioto river just below Richmondale recently, the largest fish taken from the stream this year and one of the largest taken in the region in recent years.

OHIO TREES GO EAST

Forty-four elm trees, each about 10 inches in diameter, were shipped from Geauga County to the manufacturing district of Point Breeze, Maryland, near Baltimore, where they will provide shade and beauty in a factory district. The trees made the journey from Chardon to the east on flat railroad cars 50 feet long.

Eighteen men, under the supervision of G. S. Williamson, of a tree service company of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., extracted the trees. The equipment for the work alone cost more than $2,000.

This work led to what is believed a new record in railroad tariff books. It is believed that this is the first time in the history of modern transportation that trees have been shipped.

So favorable do eastern manufacturers regard the experiment with Geauga county elms, that they are planning to remove 300 more of them for similar purposes.

Gorilla Not Tall

The adult male gorilla is from 5 to 6 feet high in its natural attitude, although after death it may be stretched beyond this. Most specimens are under 6 feet, on account of the relative shortness and generally fixed position of the legs.

Scholar's Rise to Fame

Prof. Joseph Wright, emeritus professor of comparative philology at Oxford university, who died at the age of seventy-four, began his career at six, driving a donkey.

Fashion Revue To Be Staged On July 2, 3

Next Wednesday and Thursday, July 2 and 3 are the dates set for the Greater Circleville Fashion and Beauty Revue.

In this revue local girls will model the latest style creations for local merchants and also help bring the City of Circleville forward to the extent that one of their number will be called upon to represent this city at the State Beauty Pageant to be held at Russell's Point.

The management of the Cliftona Theatre is making arrangements for a large runway to extend out into the audience that the models will parade on, also to take care of the large audiences that will be on hand to greet the local girls who will act as models. Ohio will be the last state to hold its pageant before the International Pageant of Pulchritude is held at Galveston, Texas, where the winners of each state will compete against the foreign beauties.

Local interest will run high in hopes that the young lady chosen as Miss Circleville will be one to compete at Galveston.

LUTHERANS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF GROCERS ERRORS, WALKS ANNEX GAME, SCORE 10 TO 3

The home run smash of Mr. Smith, who in all the game, allowed eight passes. And still the churchmen weren't satisfied, as neither were the Grocers satisfied with their eight errors as again in the fifth stanza five more runs crossed the plate. Wild pitches, erred balls in the outfield, muffed balls in the infield, a bad throw to first base and an error on the third baseman allowed these runs to pass over the platter.

The Grocers finally did come up out of the slump, and through several clean hits, together with a couple of stolen bases and a wild pitch two runs crossed the plate in the sixth stanza.

The churchmen did not score any runs after their tenth one in the fifth frame.

The last run of the game was made by Mettler when he stepped to the plate in the ninth and sent a whizzing hit into centerfield and rounded the bases and touched the home plate for a home run.

Ray Smith who hurled ball for the losers allowed eight free transports and had one strike-out while Roy Dumm, the churchmen's moundsmen, allowed no walks and had two strike-outs.

Clarkie Stevens had a beautiful three base hit in the eighth frame but was put out at home plate after attempting to steal.

Sherd Boyer and Forrest Valentine umpired.

DOGGY WARD'S TEAM SCORES SEVENTEEN ERRORS BUT WINS FROM PETTIT-SINCLAIR NINE

"A Comedy of Errors," totaling 17, almost lost a ball game for Doggy Ward's team at Mason's park Thursday evening, but a rally in the ninth frame after their opponents had scored seven runs to their four, won the game, and automatically shoves them into a tie for second place with Coca Colas. The score was 8 to 7. Pettit-Sinclairs were the losers.

The game was one of the most exciting and thrilling that has ever been played, even though the second and third basemen on Ward's team had 13 errors recorded against them.

The old ball game started in fast style, and before anyone had realized the ball game had started Don White flayed the ball for a nice hit, and through several other hits was sent around the sacks and was finally brought across the plate when H. White sent a grounder into the infield which was muffed.

Ward's time was coming and when it did come in the last of the first stanza the deputy's boys sent four men across the rubber.

These runs were obtained by several clean hits, and a couple of errors in the infield and outfield. Then the ball game rolled along smoothly, with very few hits, however, a number of errors, until the sixth frame when the oil men again let loose and brought another man across the platter.

The lid blew off the pan in the seventh when the infield on the Wardmen completely blew all to pieces and by a couple hits these tire and oil boys sent three men racing around the sacks and finally all three tabbed the platter for a run and the score was 5 to 4, with Doggy holding the short end.

Matters continued to grow worse in the eighth frame when errors and errors began to be recorded against the Wardmen and the Sinclair men, certainly took advantage of this fact, and for their third consecutive scoring period, sent two men around the sacks for runs.

Then the climax, the plot and subordinate plot all happened at the same time when the Wardmen began swatting the pill into the outfield, all which were clean hits, and in the midst of cheering and excitement four runs tabbed the sacred platter in the ninth to win the ball game by the score of 8 to 7.

Eddie Watson, moundsmen for the losers allowed four free men on bases and had a strike-out, while Jaggy Davis, hurler for the winners, only allowed three walks and had no strike-out.

This defeat will shove the Pettit-Sinclair into a tie with the Grocers for fifth place.

DAZZY VANCE DAZZLES CUB AGGREGATION

Robins Hop On Root—Athletics Beat Brownies With Sam Grap Up.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Humility is almost a divine virtue and the meek and the mild shall be thrice blessed was the sole consolation today to the Chicago Cubs. From their famed murderers' row right on down the entire payroll, the Bruins ate pie from the big, red hands of shuffling Dazzy Vance yesterday and the scintillating dazzler sent the bruised and very much tamed Cubs to the cooling showers to the melody of 7 to 1.

Hack Wilson, who got three hits, was the only killer of the Cubs who puzzled Dazzy, while the shock men of the Robins climbed on Charlie Root in the second-inning and batted him over the mound as they made five runs: Gilbert, Deberry and Herman each got two hits.

The league leading Athletics had little trouble subduing their old playmate, Sam Gray, and trounced the Brownies, 8 to 3. Fox of the A's hanger his 19th homer of the season.

In one of those old fashioned county fair clashes the aspiring Yanks defeated Cleveland, 13 to 11. Tony Lazzeri got a homer with the bags bogged, Hodapp, Seeds and Averill circled for the Indians and there was all kinds of fun. Babe Ruth only got two measly hits.

Collins, Phillies pitcher, was thinking about something else and dropped the ball while winding up to permit Brickwell to score the run that won the opener for Pittsburgh. In the evening event four Philadelphia pitchers were helpless and the Pirates took it, 11 to 5.

Celebrating his return to first after a siege of Charley Horse, Joe Judge made two hits, batted in a run and scored once as the Washington Senators lowered Detroit, 12 to 4.

Five Cardinal pitchers coughed up 20 safeties, including a homer by Melvin Ott, and the Giants humbled St. Louis, 12 to 4.

The Sox of Chicago used four pitchers in an attempt to beat Boston, but the Ruddy Sox took their sixth win of the year from the Alabasters, 9 to 7. Miller, Boston keystoneer, starred with three hits.

Rain washed out Boston at Cincinnati.

LUTHERANS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF GROCERS ERRORS, WALKS ANNEX GAME, SCORE 10 TO 3

The home run smash of Mr. Mettler of the Grocers slammed into the outfield in the ninth stanza did not help matters any for his team, as the Lutheran Brotherhood had shoved 10 runs across the plate in their times at bat to win 10 to 3. The game was at the Utilities field Thursday evening.

Even though the score was rather lopsided, nevertheless the game was full of interest.

The Grocers blew up early in the game, and probably the loss of the game rests on the infield of the Grocers as one man had five errors recorded against him.

The old ball game began zooming in the first inning when the Lutherans sent a man across the rubber.

Then again in the third frame, the Grocers blew up and let four more men trickle across the plate. Probably these were largely due to poor pitching on the part of Smith, who in all the game, allowed eight passes.

And still the churchmen weren't satisfied, as neither were the Grocers satisfied with their eight errors as again in the fifth stanza five more runs crossed the plate. Wild pitches, erred balls in the outfield, muffed balls in the infield, a bad throw to first base and an error on the third baseman allowed these runs to pass over the platter.

DOGGY WARD'S TEAM SCORES SEVENTEEN ERRORS BUT WINS FROM PETTIT-SINCLAIR NINE

"A Comedy of Errors," totaling 17, almost lost a ball game for Doggy Ward's team at Mason's park Thursday evening, but a rally in the ninth frame after their opponents had scored seven runs to their four, won the game, and automatically shoves them into a tie for second place with Coca Cola. The score was 8 to 7. Pettit-Sinclair were the losers.

The game was one of the most exciting and thrilling that has ever been played, even though the second and third basemen on Ward's team had 13 errors recorded against them.

The old ball game started in fast style, and before anyone had realized the ball game had started Don White flayed the ball for a nice hit, and through several other hits was sent around the sacks and was finally brought across the plate when H. White sent a grounder into the infield which was muffed.

Ward's time was coming and when it did come in the last of the first stanza the deputy's boys sent four men across the rubber.

These runs were obtained by several clean hits, and a couple of errors in the infield and outfield.

Then the ball game rolled along smoothly, with very few hits, however, a number of errors, until the sixth frame when the oil men again let loose and brought another man across the platter.

The lid blew off the pan in the seventh when the infield on the Wardmen completely blew all to pieces and by a couple hits these tire and oil boys sent three men racing around the sacks and finally all three tabbed the platter for a run and the score was 5 to 4, with Doggy holding the short end.

Matters continued to grow worse in the eighth frame when errors and errors began to be recorded against the Wardmen and the Sinclair men certainly took advantage of this fact, and for their third consecutive scoring period, sent two men around the sacks for runs.

Then the climax, the plot and subordinate plot all happened at the same time when the Wardmen began swatting the pill into the outfield, all which were clean hits, and in the midst of cheering and excitement four runs tabbed the sacred platter in the ninth to win the ball game by the score of 8 to 7.

Eddie Watson, moundsman for the losers allowed four free men on bases and had a strike-out, while Jaggy Davis, hurler for the winners, only allowed three walks and had no strike-out.

This defeat will shove the Pettit-Sinclair into a tie with the Grocers for fifth place.

DAZZY VANCE DAZZLES CUB AGGREGATION

Robins Hop On Root—Athletics Beat Brownies With Sam Gray Up.

NEW YORK, June 27—Humility is almost a divine virtue and the meek and the mild shall be thrice blessed was the sole consolation today for the Chicago Cubs. From their famed murderers' row right on down the entire payroll, the Bruins ate pie from the big, red hands of shuffling Dazzy Vance yesterday and the scintillating dazzer sent the bruised and very much tamed Cubs to the cooling showers to the melody of 7 to 1.

Hack Wilson, who got three hits, was the only killer of the Cubs who puzzled Dazzy, while the shock men of the Robins climbed on Charlie Root in the second inning and batted him over the mound as they made five runs. Gilbert, Deberry and Herman each got two hits.

The league leading Athletics had little trouble subduing their old playmate, Sam Gray, and trounced the Brownies, 8 to 3. Foxx of the A's banger his 19th homer of the season.

In one of those old fashioned county fair clashes the aspiring Yanks defeated Cleveland, 13 to 11. Tony Lazzeri got a homer with the bags bogged, Hodapp, Seeds and Averill circled for the Indians and there was all kinds of fun. Babe Ruth only got two measly hits.

Collins, Phillies pitcher, was thinking about something else and dropped the ball while winding up to permit Brickwell to score the run that won the opener for Pittsburgh. In the evening event four Philadelphia pitchers were helpless and the Pirates took it, 11 to 5.

Celebrating his return to first after a siege of Charley Horse, Joe Judge made two hits, batted in a run and scored once as the Washington Senators lowered Detroit, 12 to 4.

Five Cardinal pitchers coughed up 20 safeties, including a homer by Melvin Ott, and the Giants humbled St. Louis, 12 to 4.

The Sox of Chicago used four pitchers in an attempt to beat Boston, but the Ruddy Sox took their sixth win of the year from the Alabasters, 9 to 7. Miller, Boston keystone, starred with three hits.

Rain washed out Boston at Cincinnati.

Don't trust WORN tires...

the U.S. ROYAL

is designed for safety

Worn tires may skid in a pinch—they may blow out at high speed or under quick braking. They are as untrustworthy in an emergency as worn-out brakes.

Insure your safety and that of your passengers by outfitting with non-skid, durable tires of the very highest quality.

And that means U. S. Royals—built by the world's largest producer of rubber.

The Tread That Gives Maximum Road Grip

The deep-notched tread of U. S. Royals is designed to give maximum road grip, sure braking and an increase in driving ease.

And this same tread is made so tough that U. S. Royals last for thousands of miles longer than other tires of the same price. You can't duplicate this quality and you can't match our prices.

City To Take Over Hospital

The City of Circleville is about to become the owner of one of the finest small hospitals in the state of Ohio, and at this time, with only two days between now and the grand opening of the institution, the Berger Hospital memories are thrown back to the days when the idea of a hospital was a mere infant, along the subsequent steps until now. There are very few residents in this fair city who realize the work it has required to erect a hospital of the type of Circleville's new one.

The idea of a hospital was started when the late Frank P. Berger, wealthy Pickaway-co farmer and landowner, provided in his will that the City of Circleville should be named a residuary legatee receiving an unspecified sum of money from his estate. The amount of that sum and whether the city will obtain it is in the hands of Common Pleas Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, O., who has not yet rendered a decision on the case against the city by the heirs of the estate.

PASS BOND ISSUE

City council, convinced that whatever the amount received from Mr. Berger's will would be, would not be enough to provide for a hospital so a bond issue was placed before the voters in November 1923 for the sum of $75,000 with which to erect the hospital. The bond issue carried by a vote of 2,100 for, 934 against, and 326 blanks.

On November 21, 1923, city council approved a hospital committee appointed by Mayor B. T. Hedges including the following citizens: S. T. Rife, H. G. Stevenson, R. L. Brehmer, J. I. Smith and Fred R. Nicholas, clerk.

Because of a heated argument between residents of one end of the city with residents of the other over the location of the institution, the hospital commission was unable to begin to function until April 15, 1929. Several properties were offered the city in different parts of the city with the argument finally being sifted down until the east end and the north end sites were all that remained. It was decided by council to purchase the land owned by Mary and Missuri Myers in N. Pickaway street which it did for the sum of $4,000.

Council voted as follows on the purchase of this site: Yeas, Leist, Marion, Neuding, Will. Nays: Baker, Barnes and Henn.

The hospital commission then organized with Mayor B. T. Hedges as president by virtue of his official office. R. L. Brehmer was named vice president and Fred R. Nicholas, secretary.

On April 15, the same night the commission was organized Robert Harsh, Inc., of Columbus, was employed as architect for the hospital. Harsh has been paid the sum of $4,183.65 for his work.

HIRE CONTRACTORS

In July 22, 1929, the commission entered into a contract with D. W. McGrath and Sons of Columbus for the general construction of the hospital. McGrath and Sons have been paid $43,495 in full for the erection of the Berger Hospital.

On the same day a contract with Gustav Hirsch of Columbus, was entered for electrifying the hospital. Hirsch has been paid complete, the sum of $3,202.85.

In July 22, 1929, Edward Crist, local merchant, was granted the contract for plumbing and heating. Crist's original contract called for $8,315.00, but has been paid $23,118.32 by the commission. Since Crist was awarded a contract for the hospital work it was not necessary that his work be confined to plumbing and heating, so in order to cut down cost of advertising bids, many other items necessary to the hospital were purchased through Mr. Crist at no cost to himself.

The total of the amount paid to these contractors is $73,893.32. The real estate cost was $4,000 and miscellaneous items the sum of $2,225.02 was paid, making a grand total of $80,118.34.

Without the excellent donations made by the citizens of the city, former citizens who remembered their dear ones here and a number of fraternal organizations, including churches, lodges and ladies' clubs, the hospital would be in a bad fix.

LIST OF DONORS

It has been requested the sums donated by various donors not be published so a list of those who have contributed to this great cause will be listed. Contributors are: Elizabeth Ruggles, Theodore Friedman (Ted Lewis) and wife, Edna Dillard, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rausenberger, The Ebenezer Social Circle, Dr. Bishop of Cleveland, Miss Sarah Williams, Business and Professional Women's Club, Dr. Howard Jones, Pythian Sisters, John Stevenson and family, Elks Lodge, Dr. Emerick of Columbus, G. C. Murphy Co., J. C. Conny Co., Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wilson, The Monday Club, National Theatricals, Mrs. C. D. Clonson, of P. J. Wallace Crist

The man upon whom the weight of supervision of the Berger hospital will be placed Sunday is J. Wallace Crist, safety-director of the city, and if Mr. Crist continues to work after the hospital is under operation, as he has in the past several months preparing for the grand opening, the Berger hospital has an excellent executive over it.

Morning and afternoon, Mr. Crist has been putting his time at the institution, planning, looking ahead at what will be needed here, and there, and in some little nook that may have been overlooked by someone less attentive than he. Crist has a task under which many, many men would flinch but you can bet your bottom dollar, he is going to give everything he has to make the Berger hospital an institution that not only the residents of Circleville and Pickaway-co will be proud, but that the name Berger Hospital will be heard around Ohio.

BEST WISHES FROM WILDER

Wilder's Cash Store wishes to congratulate the Berger Hospital Commission on the beautiful new building, the complete equipment, the ideal location, and the good taste in furnishings.

This store was fortunate in securing the contract for the DuPont "Tontine," the washable window shade. The window shade is without an equal, for durability, and fast color. Tontine is the cloth that more than sixty percent of the architects and contractors insist on equipping all public buildings.

The Kirsch Rods as furnished by us, are of the Statuary bronze finish, equipped with rollers and pulls which make it easy for hanging and operating of all curtains and drapes.

Of course the long corridors in a hospital must have sound stillness. This was accomplished by the 1-8 inch corrugated rubber matting runners, furnished by this store.

The six velvet rugs were made special from 12-4 Newport Broadloom Velvet in plain toupé color No. 4471, the ideal neutral color for home and public buildings.

Also, with the Jeffries and Colville Dry Goods store and Moellers we furnished blankets, sheets, pillow cases, bedspreads, and many other items.

We wish the new hospital the patronage and success of which it justly deserves.

PASTEURIZED MILK CHOSEN

Circle City Dairy Named By Hospital Heads to Furnish Milk There.

Little does the average citizen of Circleville realize the ever increasing use of milk. Many other foods are being replaced by the milk owing to the fact that it is so easily digested. The body uses all the food properties of milk, while many other foods only a small percent are absorbed by the digestion. Milk is the only perfect food. In the cities we see a far greater increase in the use per capita than in the rural towns. The business men, professional men, laborers, clerks, athletes in fact all classes find milk a leading food for breakfast. Thousands and thousands of people are making milk their chief food for breakfast. They find they work easier and feel better through out the day. In the cities some years ago, good milk was hard to buy, but since pasturization of milk has become so common milk is the leading. Dairy products according to reports have become the leading industry of our country. The people of Circleville today is using at least 150 gallons of milk per day more than used five years ago.

The Circle City Dairy alone has more than tripled its output of milk. The Circle City is now delivering pasturized milk to a number of small towns near Circleville.

Few people after they have been informed that pasturization of milk is simply heating milk to 145° and holding that temperature for a period of time, then cooled to a fraction of 36° to 40°, doubt that it is cleaner food than before. All people know that harmful disease germs die at 135° or under. It has been a belief of many in past years that only fresh milk direct from the cow is the only food for babies. This has been disproved thousands of times. In Circleville over two dozen parents have reported that their children have never tasted any milk but that which has been pasturized. All these babies are walking advertisers of pasteurized milk.

Now nearly 75 per cent of the children of Circleville use pasteurized milk. Many of the remaining 25 per cent use pasteurized milk obtained from grocers.

The Circle City Dairy pasturizes all their milk products. They obtain the milk from 35 farmers who are under state inspection. From the time the milk enters the plant the most strict sanitary methods are used until it is in the bottles. It requires three wagons and one truck to deliver the output of the Circle City Dairy. The management of this plant is always ready to show visitors any thing about the process of pasturizing milk.

Foot Arches

There are four arches in the foot—the long arch at the inside of the foot from heel to great toe, the front arch across the ball of the foot, the arch at the outside of the foot from the heel to the base of the small toe, and the arch across the middle of the foot under the instep.

Man's Vocation

Each man has his own vocation. The talent is the call. There is one direction in which all space is open to him. He has faculties silently inviting him thither to endless exertion. He is like a ship in a river; he runs against obstructions on every side but one; on that side all obstruction is taken away and he sweeps serenely over the deepening channel into an infinite sea.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Miss Robertson

Miss Marie Robertson, appointed superintendent of the Berger hospital, comes to Circleville with an unblemished record. Her experience has been marked by work in some of the largest and most renowned hospitals in the United States. Her mind is hospital-trained and to see her fly around the polished corridors of the Berger hospital, one would think that institution were a pet of hers, that she just couldn't stand to have anything wrong with it.

Miss Robertson has been here for a number of weeks, working very diligently, and when everything is ready and the hospital has been opened to the public, Miss Robertson will have the satisfaction of having things just as she wants them, and which she thinks will be of the greatest advantage to the welfare of the hospital.

Sickly Royal Family

Queen Anne, who reigned over England from 1702 to 1714, gave birth to 17 children, not one of whom survived her. Only one survived infancy. This was William, the duke of Gloucester, who died in 1700 at the age of eleven.—Pathfinder Magazine.

RED LIGHT SET ABOVE DOORWAYS

Among the equipped facilities which have been installed in the new Berger Memorial Hospital is the method in which emergencies are answered by nurses.

Outside of each room is a button and also at the top of the door is a red light. In case of an emergency, when a nurse may need aid or if a patient is in need of help, he or she may press the button and a bell will resound in the nurses headquarters as well as throughout the hospital, and help will be sent. In case of a patient needing aid, a button is installed near his bed and he will be furnished prompt assistance.

This is one of the many "last word" facilities which have been installed at the hospital.

ALL ROOMS OF HOSPITAL ARE TAKEN BY LODGES, INDIVIDUALS

Beautifully Colored and Appropriate Equipment Fills Each Room of the Berger Hospital, Aiding in Making It As Homelike as Possible—Donations Are Greatly Appreciated.

All of the rooms at The Berger Memorial Hospital were furnished by societies and individuals. Many of them are in memory of dear ones.

On the right as one enters the front door, is the library, furnished richly with genuine quaint desk, tables and chairs. These were the gift of Miss Sally Williams in memory of her brother, A. J. Williams.

The first patient's room on the right is the gift of Dr. Howard Jones in memory of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Jones. The colors of this room are orchid and green, with the walls in celestial orchid. The room is number 6.

Number seven was furnished by Dr. Bishop of Cleveland in memory of Dr. A. W. Thompson. The colors are old gold and green, with the walls finished in lily of the valley.

The room furnished beautifully by Henry Joseph is in a delicate shade of pink, with peach bloom walls. The rugs and bedspread all border on this shade.

The last room on the southwest end is in old rose and sapphire ivory. This is a large room and like several, has two beds, with bedspreads and rugs to match.

The south sun porch has unique furniture of transparent green, and is one of the loveliest spots in the hospital, for it suggests rest and convalescence. This room was donated by the Monday Club. Nothing has been omitted for the comfort of the patients who are able to spend many pleasant hours.

Across the hall from the Pythian Sisters' room is the large and practical room, which is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rausenberger. This is the first room in the south, on the east side of the corridor.

In addition to the regular hospital bed, there is a special fracture bed, pulleys and rods for a patient requiring such in the treatment of broken bones. This room is indispensable.

Next to it is the nursery, the gift of Ted Lewis, son of Mrs. B. Friedman of this city, in memory of his late father. The nursery is the last word in equipment, with tiny bassinets in blue and pink. On the shelf of one of the tables is a decorated white box, containing the necklaces that are placed around the infant's neck at birth.

S. T. Rife

I have enjoyed the privileges of having a small part in the construction and equipment of the Berger Municipal Hospital.

It has been a happy experience. The men with whom I have worked have a vision of larger and better things for Circleville.

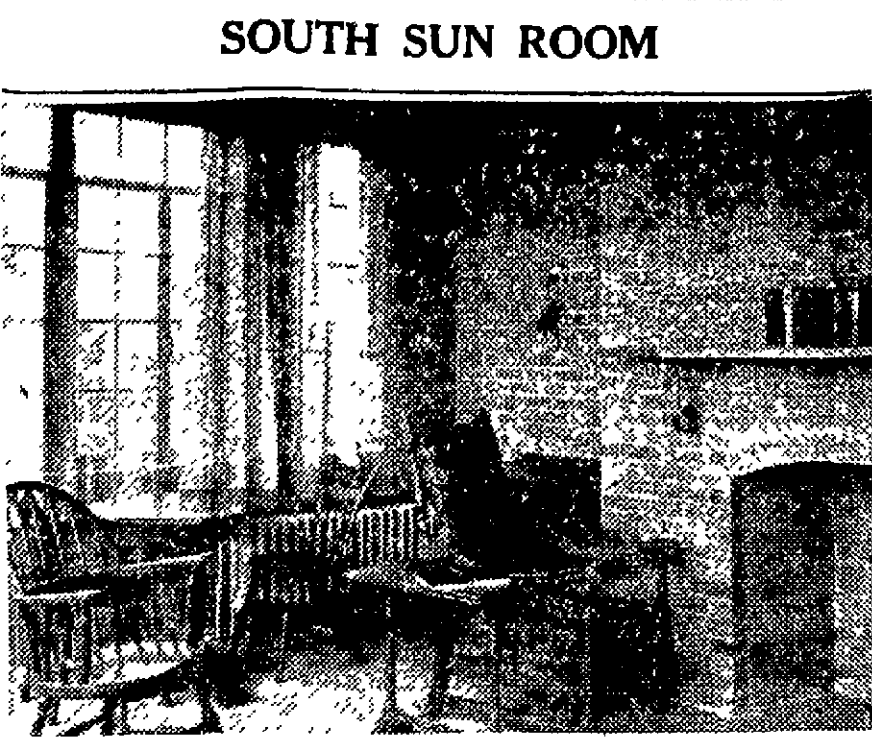

I hope I may see the institution the place for which it is intended, and I am sure it deserves to occupy in the welfare of our city.

Respectfully,
S. T. Rife, a member of the Hospital Board.

Mass Marie Robertson, superintendent of the hospital, will proudly exhibit these necklaces, although she says that babies are never mixed in a hospital.

Passing the dining room and kitchen on the east side of the corridor, and across the hall which leads back to the operating rooms, the first room is the large room with several beds, which was the gift of the Elks Club. The color of the walls and rugs is barberry blue.

The Brotherhood of the Trinity Lutheran church furnished the second of the two largest rooms in the hospital, which is the farthest on the east side. It has four beds. The color predominating here is also barberry blue, a quiet restful shade.

The north sun room is finished with cafe au lait, a neutral shade for walls and ceiling. The furniture, comfortable and abundant, is of transparent yellow. This delightful room, cheerful and attractive was given by the Thespians, the local chapter of this national organization of amateur actors.

The west bed room, the first on the north end, has two beds. The colors here are delicately pink or celestial orchid, with rich bedspreads, and every convenience for the patients. The room was the gift of Mrs. C. D. Closson. It's number is two.

The Knights of Pythias furnished the bright and attractive room, number three. Great care in the selection of colors was shown here. The walls are Versailles gray, and the rugs and hangings harmonize.

The room given by John Stevenson and family is number four, with beautiful furniture and rugs. The popular peach bloom walls are bright but not glaring, and make a most delightful background for the furnishings.

The room given by Miss Elizabeth Stevenson and Donald H. Watt is number five, the first bedroom on the left of the front entrance. The green decorated furniture makes it different, and is quite effective as one of the front bedrooms. The walls are peach bloom.

The office, directly on the left of the front door was furnished by

CEMENT SOLD BY S. C. GRANT

Over 1,000 Barrels of Wabash Portland Cements Used at Berger Hospital.

The building of the Berger Hospital required over 1000 barrels of cement in the construction of the foundation and the Terrazzo work and Wabash Portland cement was selected for this purpose.

This large order for cement was filled by S. C. Grant, local dealer for this product. To give a person an idea of how much cement was used in the construction of this beautiful and substantial building, if the sacks were layed end to end they would make a line from the Norfolk and Western railroad crossing on S Court street to the entrance of Forrest Cemetery near the north corporation line of Circleville.

R. L. Brehmer

When Mayor B. T. Hedges was called upon to name five citizens of this city as a member of the Berger hospital commission, one of the first persons he turned to was Robert L. Brehmer, and what a choice that turned out to be. When anything has been wanted, in the way of advice at the hospital, whether it be at his busiest time of whether he has plenty of leisure, Bob Brehmer was always ready to lay business aside to offer his aid in anything which dealt with the Berger hospital.

If Brehmer, with the remainder of the hospital commission, could be recompensed for the amount of time they spent for the good of the city and Pickaway-co in time handed to the good cause of the institution, a large appropriation would need to be made by the city council.

for this firm covering the southeastern part of Ohio and part of West Virginia.

Landscape Gardening

The ancients practiced landscape gardening, but little is known about the styles in vogue among the different people. From the early times of the Christian era to the Thirteenth century the art was mainly practiced in the adornment of walled gardens connected with castles or convents. Lenore was a celebrated French landscape gardener of the Seventeenth century.

Noted Indian Chief

The Indian name "Hiawatha" means "he makes rivers." Hiawatha was a legendary chief, about 1850, of the Onondaga tribe. The formation of the League of Six Nations, known as the Iroquois, is attributed to him by Indian tradition.

PLUMBING IS WORK OF ART

Ed. Crist Installs Plumbing and Heating Apparatus At Hospital.

Plumbing and heating equipment furnished for the Berger hospital by Edward Crist is of the finest and most widely known makes that can be obtained. Crane fixtures have been employed by Mr. Crist whenever it has been possible and those acquainted with this brand of plumbing fixtures never question its durability and service.

Starting in the basement of the Berger hospital, the janitor's room is found. In the cellar Mr. Crist has installed an Electro-Meter 215 gallon water softener with ability of softening 700 gallons of water an hour. Although, Mr. Crist, says it is not often that 700 gallons of water will be used in one hour, it is there if it is needed.

A hot water supply tank, 320 gallon capacity, is found in the basement and is heated by coal. A Super-smokeless boiler with Warren-Webster vapor system built by the National Radiator Co., was installed by Mr. Crist.

Solid porcelain vitreous china syphon jet slop sinks have been placed in all rooms to be used by the nurses.

The plumbing and heating has been officially o. k'd by the of Ohio health board and a signifying such has been given hospital.

In Photography

An "ambrotype" is a picture taken on a plate of prepared glass in which the lights are represented in silver and the shades are produced by a dark background viewed through the unsilvered portions of the glass. The ambrotype was invented by James Ambrose Cup and used during the transition period between daguerreotypes and photographs.

City To Take Over Hospital

The City of Circleville is about to become the owner of one of the finest small hospitals in the state of Ohio, and at this time, with only two days between now and the grand opening of the institution, the Berger Hospital memories are thrown back to the days when the idea of a hospital was a mere infant, along the subsequent steps until now. There are very few residents in this fair city who realize the work it has required to erect a hospital of the type of Circleville's new one.

The idea of a hospital was started when the late Frank P. Berger, wealthy Pickaway-co farmer and landowner, provided in his will that the City of Circleville should be named a residuary legatee receiving an unspecified sum of money from his estate. The amount of that sum and whether the city will obtain it is in the hands of Common Pleas Judge Harry S. Core of Ottawa, O., who has not yet rendered a decision on the case against the city by the heirs of the estate.

PASS BOND ISSUE

City council, convinced that whatever the amount received from Mr. Berger's will would be, would not be enough to provide for a hospital, so a bond issue was placed before the voters in November 1928 for the sum of $75,000 with which to erect the hospital. The bond issue carried by a vote of 2,100 for, 994 against, and 326 blanks.

On November 21, 1928, city council approved a hospital committee appointed by Mayor B. T. Hedges including the following citizens: T. Rife, H. G. Stevenson, R. L. Brehmer, J. I. Smith and Fred R. Nicholas, clerk.

Because of a heated argument between residents of one end of the city with residents of the other over the location of the institution, the hospital commission was unable to begin to function until April 15, 1929. Several properties were offered the city in different parts of the city with the argument finally being sifted down until the east end and the north end sites were all that remained. It was decided by council to purchase the land owned by Mary and Miss Muri Myers in N. Pickaway street, which it did for the sum of $4,000. Council voted as follows on the purchase of this site: Yeas, Leist, Neuding, Will, Nays, Baker, Barnes and Henn.

The hospital commission then organized with Mayor B. T. Hedges as president by virtue of his official office. R. L. Brehmer was named vice president and Fred R. Nicholas, secretary.

On April 15, the same night the commission was organized Robert Harsh, Inc., of Columbus, was employed as architect for the hospital. Harsh has been paid the sum of $4,183.65 for his work.

HIRE CONTRACTORS

In July 22, 1929, the commission entered into a contract with D. W. McGrath and Sons of Columbus for the general construction of the hospital. McGrath and Sons have been paid $43,495 in full for the construction of the Berger Hospital.

On the same day a contract with Gustav Hirsch of Columbus, was entered into for electrifying the hospital. Hirsch has been paid complete, the sum of $3,202.85.

In July 22, 1929, Edward Crist, local merchant, was granted the contract for plumbing and heating. Crist's original contract called for $3,831.50, but has been paid $23,113.22 by the commission. Since Crist was awarded a contract for the hospital work it was not necessary that his work be confined to plumbing and heating, so in order to cut down cost of advertising bids, many other items necessary to the hospital were purchased through Mr. Crist at no cost to himself.

The total of the amount paid to these contractors is $73,893.32. The real estate cost was $4,000 and for miscellaneous items the sum of $2,225.02 was paid, making a grand total of $80,118.34.

Without the excellent donations made by the citizens of the city, former citizens who remembered their dear ones here and a number of fraternal organizations including churches, lodges and ladies' clubs, the hospital would be in a bad fix.

LIST OF DONORS

It has been requested the sums donated by various donors not be published so a list of those who have contributed to this great cause will be listed. J. Wallace Crist

The man upon whom the weight of supervision of the Berger hospital will be placed Sunday is J. Wallace Crist, safety-director of the city, and if Mr. Crist continues to work after the hospital is under operation, as he has in the past several months preparing for the grand opening, the Berger hospital has an excellent executive over it.

Morning and afternoon, Mr. Crist has been putting his time at the institution, planning, looking ahead at what will be needed here, and there, and in some little nook that may have been overlooked by someone less attentive than he. Crist has a task under which many, many men would flinch but you can bet your bottom dollar, he is going to give everything he has to make the Berger hospital an institution that not only the residents of Circleville and Pickaway-co will be proud, but that the name Berger Hospital will be heard around Ohio.

BEST WISHES FROM WILDER

Wilder's Cash Store wishes to congratulate the Berger Hospital Commission on the beautiful new building, the complete equipment, the ideal location and the good taste in furnishings.

This store was fortunate in securing the contract for the DuPont "Tontine," the washable window shade. The window shade is with an equal, for durability, and fast color. Tontine is the cloth that more than sixty percent of the architects and contractors insist on equipping all public buildings.

The Kirsch Rods as furnished by us, are of the Statuary bronze finish, equipped with rollers and pulls which make it easy for hanging and operating of all curtains and drapes.

Of course the long corridors in a hospital must have sound stillness this was accomplished by the 1-8 inch corrugated rubber matting runners, furnished by this store.

The six velvet rugs were made special from 12-4 Newport Broadloom Velvet in plain taupe color No. 4471, the ideal neutral color for home and public buildings.

Also, with the Jeffries and Colville Dry Goods store and Moellers we furnished blankets, sheets, pillow cases, bedspreads, and many other items.

We wish the new hospital the patronage and success of which it justly deserves.

PASTEURIZED MILK CHOSEN

Circle City Dairy Named By Hospital Heads to Furnish Milk There.

Little does the average citizen of Circleville realize the ever increasing use of milk. Many other foods are being replaced by the milk owing to the fact that it is so easily digested. The body uses all the food properties of milk, while many other foods only a small percent are absorbed by the digestion. Milk is the only perfect food. In the cities we see a far greater increase in the use per capita than in the rural towns. The business men, professional men, laborers, clerks, athletes in fact all classes find milk a leading food for breakfast. Thousands and thousands of people are making milk their chief food for breakfast. They find they work easier and feel better through out the day. In the cities some years ago, good milk was hard to buy, but since pasteurization of milk has become so common milk is the leading Dairy products according to reports have become the leading industry of our country. The people of Circleville today, using at least 150 gallons of milk per day more than used five years ago.

The Circle City Dairy alone has more than tripled its output of milk. The Circle City is now delivering pasteurized milk to a number of small towns near Circleville.

Few people after they have been informed that pasteurization of milk is simply heating milk to 145° and holding that temperature for a period of time, then cooled to a fraction of 36° to 40°, doubt that it is cleaner food than before. All people know that harmful disease germs die at 135° or under. It has been a belief of many in past years that only fresh milk direct from the cow is the only food for babies. This has been disproved thousands of times. In Circleville over two dozen parents have reported that their children have years or under that have never tasted any milk but that which has been pasteurized. All these babies are walking advertisers of pasteurized milk.

Now nearly 75 per cent of the children of Circleville use pasteurized milk. Many of the remaining 25 per cent use pasteurized milk obtained from grocers.

The Circle City Dairy pasteurizes all their milk products. They obtain the milk from 35 farms who are under state inspection. From the time the milk enters the plant the most strict sanitary methods are used until it is in the bottles. It requires three wagons and one truck to deliver the output of the Circle City Dairy. The management of this plant is always ready to show visitors any thing about the process of pasteurizing milk.

Miss Marie Robertson, appointed superintendent of the Berger hospital, comes to Circleville with an unblemished record. Her experience has been marked by work in some of the largest and most renowned hospitals in the United States. Her mind is hospital-trained and to see her fly around the polished corridors of the Berger hospital, one would think that institution were a pet of hers, that she just couldn't stand to have anything wrong with it.

Miss Robertson has been here for a number of weeks, working very diligently, and when everything is ready and the hospital has been opened to the public, Miss Robertson will have the satisfaction of having things just as she wants them, and which she thinks will be of the greatest advantage to the welfare of the hospital.

RED LIGHT SET ABOVE DOORWAYS

Among the equipped facilities which have been installed in the new Berger Memorial Hospital is the method in which emergencies are answered by nurses.

Outside of each room is a button and also at the top of the door is a red light. In case of an emergency, when a nurse may need or if a patient is in need of help, he or she may press the button and a bell will resound in the nurses headquarters as well as throughout the hospital, and help will be sent. In case of a patient needing aid, a button is installed near his bed and he will be furnished prompt assistance.

This is one of the many "last word" facilities which have been installed at the hospital.

MASON BROTHERS FURNISH ALL BERGER HOSPITAL FURNITURE

Of all the furnishings for the Berger Memorial Hospital, the layman will be greatly impressed by the furniture of the rooms and wards. The 23 beds, dressers, somboes and chairs, all of steel, mattresses, screens and springs, were purchased from Mason Bros. furniture store.

Instead of the sombre furniture, found in older hospitals, the furniture of the rooms has offered the keynote for the individual decoration of each room. The different colors in the rooms are made to harmonize with the furniture, in green, orchid and various colors.

Each bed is adjustable, and the somboes or night tables include a bed table, and cabinet which contain everything, likely to be needed by a patient. The somboes follow the style and color of the room's furnishings, and add beauty to the room, while at the same time are absolutely indispensable in a hospital room.

The adjustable beds are the last word in hospital equipment. Each chest of drawers is fitted with a middle drawer for a desk, which opens and unfolds with one motion. This is a convenience indispensable in a patient's room, and in less up-to-date hospitals, writing equipment must be sent for, and then the patient must use his bedside as a desk.

In addition to the furniture for the bedrooms, the attractive sun rooms on the south and the north ends of the first floor, were also supplied by the Mason Bros. store. This consists of unique chairs, comfortable and suitable for convalescent patients, who are able to sit here. There is a table in each porch, with a checker board inlaid. Everything is suggestive of rest and recuperation.

The draperies here are bright and cheery, as they are in all of the rooms. One sunroom has its furniture in transparent green finish, and the other in transparent yellow.

The old time uninviting and glaring white of the hospital rooms have been eliminated. These were perhaps thought to be the only method of keeping rooms spotless and sanitary. However, the new idea of artistic surroundings for a patient have overcome every difficulty of the old style hospital rooms.

The new furniture, entirely of steel, is far more beautiful, and just as sanitary and easily kept clean, as the old style. The new equipment gives a much better surrounding for the patients, and for the doctors and nurses.

The quarters for the nurses are on the second floor. These have also been furnished by Mason Bros. Their living room is furnished with the quaint chairs, tables and davenport, with a walnut finish. Their bedrooms, too, are as comfortable and attractive as it is possible to make them.

In the consultation room, on the right of the front entrance, the furniture is rich looking, and at the same time inviting and informal. This was also bought from Mason Bros.

Nothing has been slighted nor stinted in the hospital furniture. The taste throughout is of the best, and has helped to a great degree to give the hospital the distinction, due it, for the expense and worry to the city and individuals.

Landscaping At Hospital Shows Fine Possibility

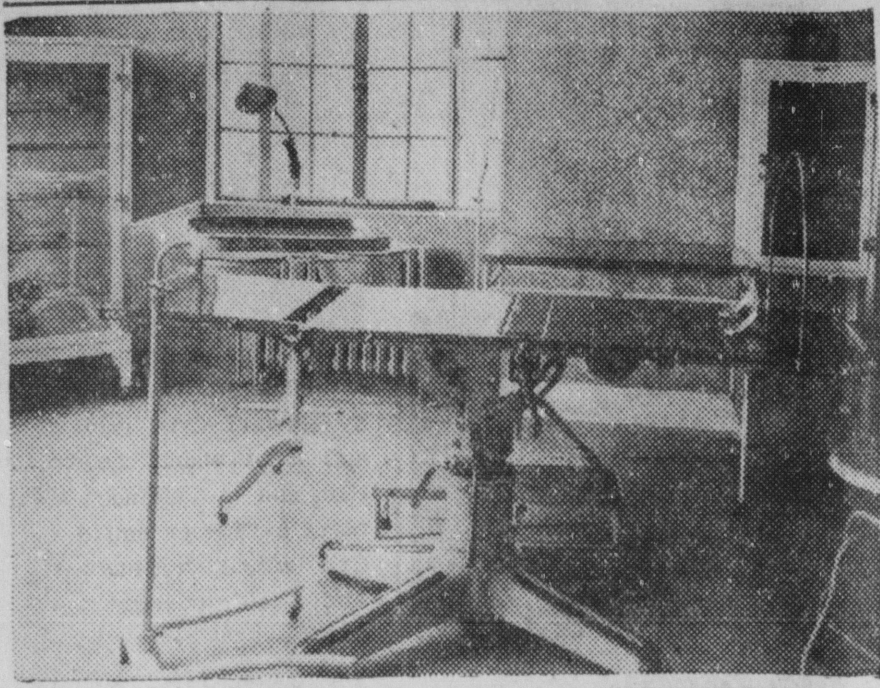

It has been the purpose of the Hospital Commission to secure for Circleville and surrounding community the best in building and equipment within the limits of the bond issue.

It has been the feeling of the Commission that the beautifying of the grounds surrounding the hospital could wait until there was available a sufficient amount of money for this purpose and if the Berger will is finally decided in favor of the Hospital, then ample funds would be available.

The location of the hospital with relation to its surroundings; being located at an elevation with natural drainage in all directions, it was decided not to alter the grade any more than was absolutely necessary. Landscape gardening as an art seems to be the following of Nature as nearly as conditions will permit and with this in view the Hospital and grounds present great possibilities for making it the Beauty Spot of Circleville, and a wonderful place in which to get well.

The addition of flowers, shrubs, trees, and lawn will have to wait another season if funds are not provided either by the Berger bequest or the City, then groups of folks who have flowers, and like available can make the beautify-

LOCKS, HINGES BY HARDWARE

Barrere and Nickerson Furnish Finishing Hardware For Hospital.

Barrere and Nickerson's Hardware Store, W. Main-st furnished all finishing hardware necessary to complete the Berger Hospital. Such items as door locks and hinges, sash locks, transom catches and lifts and all other hardware which is necessary to finish the building was furnished by this firm.

All products were purchased by the firm from The Russell and Erwin Mfg. Co., which was established in 1839 at New Britain, Connecticut. They are considered the pioneers of the Builder's Hardware industry in this country.

The Russell and Erwin Mfg. Co.'s plant today is the most modern of all manufactures of Builders Hardware and practically all items that were formerly made by hand are now manufactured by automatic machines, which makes it possible for very accurate and uniform items of hardware, as well as speedy manufacture.

This hardware which is unique in attractiveness and appearance adds much to the beauty and comfort of the hospital.

LEE LUMBER AT HOSPITAL

Great Portion Furnished By Alfred Lee, Screens, Doors, and Trimming.

Alfred Lee Lumber Co., on E. Main-st, furnished the greater portion of the lumber and mill-work to equip the Berger Municipal Hospital.

All of the designs which add the finishing and touches to the lumber work was designed at the plant under the supervision of Mr. Lee.

Mr. Lee's plant furnished the door frames, doors, screen doors and inside trim, which all is made of strong durable woodwork. A great part of the woodwork is of walnut finish, while some is of oak.

His furnishings at the hospital help add to the surroundings a home-like atmosphere and a comfortable setting.

Valuable Chemical

The statement has been made that barium is worth $12,000,000 an ounce, but not because of its scarcity or value—because of the work it does. Barium is a chemical element that is used to coat the filament of vacuum tubes with a saving of $400,000 per gram of barium used. At this rate an ounce would be worth $12,000,000.

The first thing Commander Byrd did on reaching home was to catch a bad cold.

LUMBER CO. WAS ON JOB

Circleville Lumber In Business Since 1912 Boosted For Hospital.

In 1912, just 18 years ago, The Circleville Lumber Company was organized and put into actual operation by the present owner, Tom O. Gilliland.

Since that time the business has been developed into one of the most complete builder's department stores in this part of the state. Mr. Gilliland, although a comparative young man, has followed the lumber business as his occupation for more than 25 years and is considered a veteran in his line. He has seen his business develop from the old idea of a "board yard" to the modern building store.

Originally the lumber yard sold only lumber; later sash, doors and glass was added. Later with the advent of the automobile and motor truck demanded further service from the lumber yard. When a customer calls with his truck for lumber he expects to get his roofing, hardware, paint, and the numerous other items that go to construct a building, for he is unable to park on the city streets with a load of long lumber. This parking question has had a great deal to do with the development of the present lumber yard.

This company also operates a modern planning mill as part of their service. Plans of all kinds of buildings are available. Complete costs of any building or the modernizing of old homes may be had for the asking. Not every community of this size is so fortunate in having as complete a building service as that furnished by the Circleville Lumber Co.

This company furnished the form lumber used to construct the hospital foundation and are now furnishing materials for the new residence being built by Miss Mattie Crum, Edward Wallace, Robert Anderson, Walter Daist, Karl Herrmann and Wilson Clark, and invites the public to look these jobs over as they expect their materials and workmanship to speak for themselves.

Mr. Gilliland was an active worker for the hospital, and while he hopes he will never need it, yet should hospital services be necessary he will demand that he be taken to Circleville's own hospital.

FITZPATRICK'S OFFICE GOODS

Printery Furnishes Attractive Furniture In Latest Style For Hospital.

Fitzpatrick's Printery, E. Main-st, furnished all the office furniture in the Berger Hospital.

The furniture is very attractive in a walnut finish, all metal and is of the latest style.

Fitzpatrick's purchased the metal furniture from the best furniture dealers in the country, Evansville Desk Co., Murphy Chair Co., Indiana Desk Co., and Shaw-Walker Co.

The furniture consist of an office desk, three typewriter chairs, an office chair, an assembly chair, two hall trees, one metal filing cabinet, a book case, four wood stools, and a table.

The office in the hospital is the most attractive nook in the entire structure due to the attractiveness of the furniture together with the general architectural style of the room.

ALL ROOMS OF HOSPITAL ARE TAKEN BY LODGES, INDIVIDUALS

Beautifully Colored and Appropriate Equipment Fills Each Room of the Berger Hospital, Aiding in Making It As Homelike as Possible—Donations Are Greatly Appreciated.

All of the rooms at The Berger Memorial Hospital were furnished by societies and individuals. Many of them are in memory of dear ones.

On the right as one enters the front door, is the library, furnished richly with genuine quaint desk, tables and chairs. These were the gift of Miss Sally Williams in memory of her brother, A. J. Williams.

The first patient's room on the right is the gift of Dr. Howard Jones in memory of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Jones. The colors of this room are orchid and green, with the walls in celestial orchid. The room is number 6.

Number seven was furnished by Dr. Bishop of Cleveland in memory of Dr. A. W. Thompson. The colors are old gold and green, with the walls finished in lily of the valley.

The room furnished beautifully by Henry Joseph is in a delicate shade of pink, with peach bloom walls. The rugs and bedspread all border on this shade.

The last room on the southwest end is in old rose and sudan ivory. This is a large room and like several, has two beds, with bedspreads and rugs to match.

The south sun porch has unique furniture of transparent green, and is one of the loveliest spots in the hospital, for it suggests rest and convalescence. This room was donated by the Monday Club. Nothing has been omitted for the comfort of the patients who are able to spend many pleasant hours.

Across the hall from the Pythian Sisters' room is the large and practical room, which is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rausenberger. This is the first room in the south, on the east side of the corridor.

In addition to the regular hospital bed, there is a special fracture bed, pulleys and rods for a patient requiring such in the treatment of broken bones. This room is indispensable.

Next to it is the nursery, the gift of Ted Lewis, son of Mrs. B. Friedman of this city, in memory of his late father. The nursery is the last word in equipment, with tiny bassinets in blue and pink. On the shelf of one of the tables is a decorated white box, contain-

The Brotherhood of the Trinity Lutheran church furnished the second of the two largest rooms in the hospital, which is the farthest on the east side. It has four beds. The color predominating here is also barberry blue, a quiet restful shade.

The north sun room is finished with cafe au lait, a neutral shade for walls and ceiling. The furniture, comfortable and abundant, is of transparent yellow. This delightful room, cheerful and attractive was given by the Thespians, the local chapter of this national organization of amateur actors.

The west bed room, the first on the north end, has two beds. The colors here are delicately pink or celestial orchid, with rich bed spreads, and every convenience for the patients. The room was the gift of Mrs. C. D. Closson. Its number is two.

The Knights of Pythias furnished the bright and attractive room, number three. Great care in the selection of colors was shown here. The walls are Versailles gray, and the rugs and hangings harmonize.

The room given by John Stevenson and family is number four, with beautiful furniture and rugs. The popular peach bloom walls are bright but not glaring, and make a most delightful background for the furnishings.

The room given by Miss Elizabeth Stevenson and Donald H. Watt is number five, the first bedroom on the left of the front entrance. The green decorated furniture makes it different, and is quite effective as one of the front bedrooms. The walls are peach bloom.

The office, directly on the left of the front door was furnished by the Business and Professional Women's club. The furniture with its satiny mahogany finish is typical business like, as well as comfortable, and appropriate for this prominent room of the hospital.

To give a person an idea of how much cement was used in the construction of this beautiful and substantial building, if the sacks were layed end to end they would make a line from the Norfolk and Western railroad crossing on S. When Mayor B. T. Hedges was called upon to name five citizens of this city as a member of the Berger hospital commission, one of the first persons he turned to was Robert L. When anything has been wanted, in the way of advice at the hospital, whether it be at his busiest time of whether he has plenty of leisure, Bob Brehmer was always ready to lay business aside to offer his aid in anything which dealt with the Berger hospital.

If Brehmer, with the remainder of the hospital commission, could be recompensed for the amount of time they spent for the good of the city and Pickaway-co in time handed to the good cause of the institution, a large appropriation would need to be made by the city council.

Landscape Gardening

The ancients practiced landscape gardening, but little is known about the styles in vogue among the different people. From the early times of the Christian era to the Thirteenth century the art was mainly practiced in the adornment of walled gardens connected with castles or convents. Lenotre was a celebrated French landscape gardener of the Seventeenth century.

PLUMBING IS WORK OF ART

Ed. Crist Installs Plumbing and Heating Apparatus At Hospital.

Plumbing and heating equipment furnished for the Berger hospital by Edward Crist is of the finest and most widely known makes that can be obtained. Crane fixtures have been employed by Mr. Crist whenever it has been possible and those acquainted with this brand of plumbing fixtures never question its durability and service.

Starting in the basement of the Berger hospital, the janitor's room is found. In the cellar Mr. Crist has installed an Electro-Meter 215 gallon water softener with ability of softening 700 gallons of water an hour. Although, Mr. Crist, says it is not often that 700 gallons of water will be used in one hour, it is there if it is needed.

A hot water supply tank, 320 gallon capacity, is found in the basement and is heated by coal. A Super-smokeless boiler with Warren-Webster vapor system built by the National Radiator Co., was installed by Mr. Crist.

Solid porcelain vitreous china syphon jet sloop sinks have been placed in all rooms to be used by the nurses.

The plumbing and heating has been officially o. k'd by the State of Ohio health board and a seal signifying such has been given the hospital.

In Photography

An "ambrotype" is a picture taken on a plate of prepared glass, in which the lights are represented in silver and the shades are produced by a dark background visible through the unsilvered portions of the glass. The ambrotype was invented by James Ambrose Cutlin, and used during the transition period between daguerreotypes and photographs.

MASON BROTHERS FURNISH ALL BERGER HOSPITAL FURNITURE

Of all the furnishings for the Berger Memorial Hospital, the layman will be greatly impressed by the furniture of the rooms and wards. The 23 beds, dressers, sofas and chairs, all of steel, mattresses, screens and springs, were purchased from Mason Bros. furniture store.

Instead of the sombre furniture, found in older hospitals, the furniture of the rooms has offered the keynote for the individual decoration of each room. The different colors in the rooms are made to harmonize with the furniture, in green, orchid and various colors.

Each bed is adjustable, and the sofas or night tables include a bed table, and cabinet which contain everything, likely to be needed by a patient. The sofas follow the style and color of the room's furnishings, and add beauty to the room, while at the same time are absolutely indispensable in a hospital room.

The adjustable beds are the last word in hospital equipment. Each chest of drawers is fitted with a middle drawer for a desk, which opens and unfolds with one motion. This is a convenience indispensable in a patient's room, and in less up-to-date hospitals, writing equipment must be sent for, and then the patient must use his bedside as a desk.

In addition to the furniture for the bedrooms, the attractive sun rooms on the south and the north ends of the first floor, were also supplied by the Mason Bros. store. This consists of unique chairs, comfortable and suitable for convalescent patients, who are able to sit here. There is a table in each porch, with a checker board inlaid. Everything is suggestive of rest and recuperation.

The draperies here are bright and cheery, as they are in all of the rooms. One sunroom has its furniture in transparent green finish, and the other in transparent yellow.

The old time uninviting and glaring white of the hospital rooms have been eliminated. These were perhaps thought to be the only method of keeping rooms spotless and sanitary. However, the new idea of artistic surroundings for a patient have overcome every difficulty of the old style hospital rooms.

The new furniture, entirely of steel, is far more beautiful, and just as sanitary and easily kept clean, as the old style. The new equipment gives a much better surrounding for the patients, and for the doctors and nurses.

The quarters for the nurses are on the second floor. These have also been furnished by Mason Bros. Their living room is furnished with the quant chairs, tables and davenport, with a walnut finish. Their bedrooms, too, are as comfortable and attractive as it is possible to make them.

In the consultation room, on the right of the front entrance, the furniture is rich looking, and at the same time inviting and informal. This was also bought from Mason Bros.

Nothing has been slighted nor stinted in the hospital furniture. The taste throughout is of the best, and has helped to a great degree to give the hospital the distinction, due it, for the expense and worry to the city and individuals.

Landscaping At Hospital Shows Fine Possibility

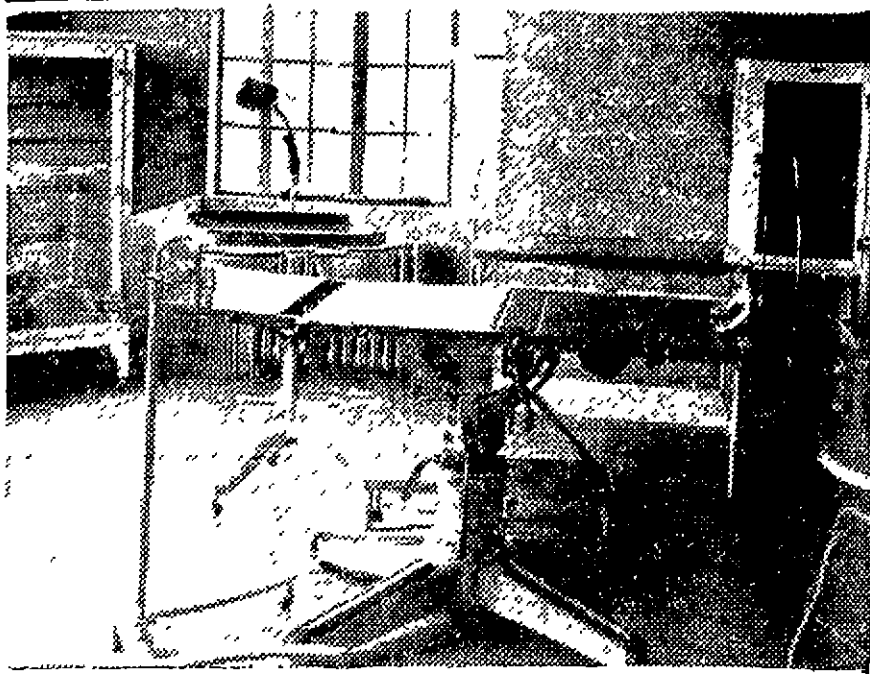

It has been the purpose of the Hospital Commission to secure for Circleville and surrounding community the best in building and equipment within the limits of the bond issue.

It has been the feeling of the Hospital Commission that the beautifying of the grounds surrounding the hospital could wait until there was available a sufficient amount of money for this purpose and if the Berger will is finally decided in favor of the Hospital, then ample funds would be available.

The location of the hospital with relation to its surroundings; being located at an elevation with natural drainage in all directions, it was decided not to alter the grade any more than was absolutely necessary. Landscape gardening as an art seems to be the following of Nature as nearly as conditions will permit and with this in view the Hospital and grounds present great possibilities for making it the Beauty Spot of Circleville, and a wonderful place in which to get well.

The addition of flowers, shrubs, trees, and lawn will have to wait another season if funds are not provided either by the Berger bequest or the City, then groups of folks who have flowers and like available can make the beautify-

LOCKS, HINGES BY HARDWARE

Barrere and Nickerson Furnish Finishing Hardware For Hospital.

Barrere and Nickerson's Hardware Store, W. Main-st furnished all finishing hardware necessary to complete the Berger Hospital.

Such items as door locks and hinges, sash locks, transom catches and lifts and all other hardware which is necessary to finish the building was furnished by this firm.

All products were purchased by the firm from The Russell and Erwin Mfg. Co., which was established in 1839 at New Britain, Connecticut. They are considered the pioneers of the Builder's Hardware industry in this country.

The Russell and Erwin Mfg. Co.'s plant today is the most modern of all manufacturers of Builders Hardware and practically all items that were formerly made by hand are now manufactured by automatic machines, which makes it possible for very accurate and uniform items of hardware, as well as speedy manufacture.

This hardware which is unique in attractiveness and appearance adds much to the beauty and comfort of the hospital.

LEE LUMBER AT HOSPITAL

Great Portion Furnished By Alfred Lee, Screens, Doors, and Trimming.

Alfred Lee Lumber Co., on E. Main-st, furnished the greater portion of the lumber and mill-work to equip the Berger Municipal Hospital.

All of the designs which add the finishing and touches to the lumber work was designed at the plant under the supervision of Mr. Lee.

Mr. Lee's plant furnished the door frames, doors, screen doors and inside trim, which all is made of strong durable woodwork. A great part of the woodwork is of walnut finish, while some is of oak.

His furnishings at the hospital help add to the surroundings a home-like atmosphere and a comfortable setting.

Valuable Chemical
The statement has been made that barium is worth $12,000,000 an ounce, but not because of its scarcity or value—because of the work it does. Barium is a chemical element that is used to coat the filament of vacuum-tubes with a saving of $400,000 per gram of barium used. At this rate an ounce would be worth $12,000,000.

The first thing Commander Byrd did on reaching home was to catch a bad cold.

LUMBER CO. WAS ON JOB

Circleville Lumber In Business Since 1912 Boosted For Hospital.

In 1912, just 18 years ago, The Circleville Lumber Company was organized and put into actual operation by the present owner, Tom O. Gilliland.

Since that time the business has been developed into one of the most complete builder's department stores in this part of the state. Mr. Gilliland, although a comparative young man, has followed the lumber business as his occupation for more than 25 years and is considered a veteran in his line. He has seen his business develop from the old idea of a "board yard" to the modern building store.

Originally the lumber yard sold only lumber; later sash, doors and blinds were added. Later with the advent of the automobile and motor truck demanded further service from the lumber yard. When a customer calls with his truck for lumber he expects to get his roofing, hardware, paint, and the numerous other items that go to construct a building, for he is unable to park on the city streets with a load of long lumber. This parking question has had a great deal to do with the development of the present lumber yard.

This company also operates a modern planning mill as part of their service. Plans of all kinds of buildings are available. Complete costs of any building or the modernizing of old homes may be had for the asking. Not every community of this size is so fortunate in having as complete a building service as that furnished by the Circleville Lumber Co.

This company furnished the form lumber used to construct the hospital foundation and are now furnishing materials for the new residence being built by Miss Mattie Crum, Edward Wallace, Robert Anderson, Walter Daist, Karl Herrmann, and Wilson Clark, and invites the public to look these jobs over as they expect their materials and workmanship to speak for themselves.

Mr. Gilliland was an active worker for the hospital, and while he hopes he will never need it, yet should hospital services be necessary he will demand that he be taken to Circleville's own hospital.

FITZPATRICK'S OFFICE GOODS

Printery Furnishes Attractive Furniture In Latest Style For Hospital.

Fitzpatrick's Printery, E. Main-st, furnished all the office furniture in the Berger Hospital.

The furniture is very attractive in a walnut finish, all metal and is of the latest style.

Fitzpatrick's purchased the metal furniture from the best furniture dealers in the country, Evansville Desk Co., Murphy Chair Co., Indiana Desk Co., and Shaw-Walker Co.

The furniture consist of an office desk, three typewriter chairs, an office chair, an assembly chair, two hall trees, one metal filing cabinet, a book case, four wood stools, and a table.

The office in the hospital is the most attractive nook in the entire structure due to the attractiveness of the furniture together with the general architectural style of the room.

the, halls or the patients' rooms. Likewise, the two operating rooms, the obstetrical room, the laboratory and the X-ray rooms are located so that they are shut off from all other parts of the hospital.

At each end of the building, which is 183 feet long, is a sun parlor glazed on three sides, the fourth side has an open fire-place and book shelves. These two rooms are for the use of convalescents.

A visit of inspection to the hospital will convince you, as it has every one who has seen it, that there is not a more complete hospital unit anywhere, and few places its equal, in the essentials which are necessary for the diagnosis and treatment, either medically or surgically, of the sick and injured.

The staff of the hospital consists of all the physicians and surgeons living in Pickaway-co, Ohio, who are members of the Pickaway-co Medical Society. But the hospital is open to the use of any physician and surgeon practicing under the laws of Ohio.

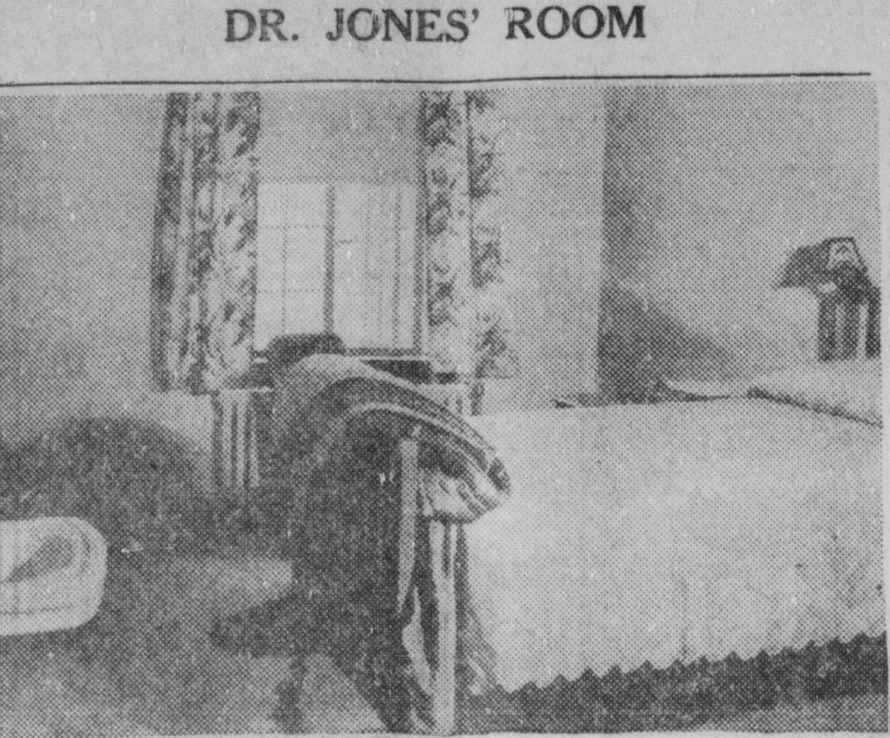

The arrangement and equipment of the main operating room are such that skilled surgeons will be able to perform the most difficult operations with equal or better advantage than in many of the larger hospitals. The operating rooms for minor surgery, accident cases and obstetrics are equally well adapted for their purpose.

The X-ray rooms and the laboratory room are furnished in a manner to exploit their usefulness. Local physicians need now experience no delay in obtaining reports on sputum, swabs, blood cultures and tests for specific diseases and such other reports as come within the purview of a biochemical and X-ray laboratory.

The fact, is, this hospital is the last word in scientific construction and useful equipment. It is fire-proof, clean and easily kept clean and free from those infections which so often compromise the best work of surgeons, obstetrician and physician.

CHARGES

It is not the intention of the City of Circleville that this hospital should be a money-making institution. It is not even expected that it will at all times pay its operating expenses. If there is a deficit, it will be met by the tax payer just as he meets the expense of the public school, the fire department, the street lighting, the police department, etc., etc. Life without health is hardly worthy the name, and governments, whether national or municipal, are fast learning that health is an asset and sickness a liability to every community. This hospital is intended for a civic health center.

Much has been written in the press about the high cost of hospital service and medical and surgical attendance. Undoubtedly some of this complaint is true, but it must be remembered that everything of value is expensive, especially skilled labor. Food is exceptionally costly and all articles pertaining to medicine and surgery are still close to war prices. The charge for room and board, with bath and service in any first class city hotel is more per week than the charge per week in many good hospitals, and there are none of the advantages of expert care and attention, the very things which are the most expensive. Fees for physicians and surgeons are the same or less at the hospital than they would be at a private home. Also nurses expenses are the same or less, but each is more efficient at the hospital because the services are rendered with the best possible surroundings for efficiency.

LABORATORY OF HOSPITAL HAS IMPORTANT FUNCTIONS

BY DR. LLOYD JONES

The laboratory department of the Berger hospital is one of five or six main departments. It has many functions to perform. Among these may be mentioned:

1. Chemical analysis of blood, urine, and at times water and food products. Blood is analyzed to determine acidosis, sugar and other products which are often found in kidney disease and heart disease. Analysis of urine has become a daily routine in every doctor's office. In a city such as Circleville the laboratory of the City Hospital should be used, and no doubt later on will be used, by the city officials for the analysis of milk, water and food products, and anything which comes under the purview of public health.

2. Serological examinations of blood and blood serum and spinal fluid. These examinations are of great value in diagnosing syphilis, typhoid fever, and in matching blood for transfusions.

3. Bacteriological procedures. The laboratory is equipped to perform the full routine procedures which include the identification of smears from nose and throat and ears, from sputum, from pleural and abdominal effusions or from any infected source.

4. The identification of tissues removed at operation to determine the presence or absence of malignant growths.

5. The manufacture of vaccines and the various solutions used in the hospital for intravenous work. The laboratory is equipped to make tests assisting in the diagnosis of gall bladder disease, stomach disease and in for tests relative to the metabolism of the body showing whether or not energy is being used faster than it should be.

All these various types of activity on the part of the laboratory require a multiplicity of materials and equipment with instruments of precision. While the laboratory at the new Berger Municipal hospital is small it must be equipped and must perform practically all the duties of a laboratory serving a larger hospital. It has analytic balances, electric incubator, electric water bath for inactivating blood serum, Arnold sterilizer and electric hot plate, electric water still, electric hemoglobinometer, Dubosq colorimeter, Zeiss binocular microscope and all the chemicals and glassware usual to such a laboratory. The hospital is equipped with a microptome Spencer Lens Co., manufactured for sectioning tissue for microscopical examination. This instrument has a freezing attachment to permit rapid diagnostic work.

As the hospital is the place where the individual brings his health problems to be solved so the laboratory is one of the agencies at the command of the hospital for solving the problems of disease. The laboratory does not make diagnoses. It works for the physician to discover facts in regard to the disease; facts which the physician may use with other facts in arriving at a conclusion.

FRIGIDAIRE AT HOSPITAL

George W. Rogers Furnishes
Refrigeration Needs By New Cooling Unit.

The refrigeration needs of the hospital are taken care of by a Frigidaire cooling unit, installed in a large McCray refrigerator.

The large coil in the ice compartment of the refrigerator will freeze twenty three pounds of ice at one time in addition to keeping, an even temperature of approximately 40 degrees in the food storage compartments.

The even temperature kept by an automatic refrigerator is necessary for the best and most economic handling of foods for an institution of this kind. A large amount of food and more varieties of foods can be kept on hand. The inconvenience of ice refrigerators is eliminated, and ice cubes are always available for cooling drinking water and for ice packs when needed.

Many other uses can be made of the Frigidaire such as preserving blood specimens, keeping anti-toxins, and vaccines.

Scores of leading hospitals everywhere have turned to Frigidaire as the safest, most practical, and dependable method of keeping foods, and medical supplies.

"In planning the Berger hospital, the board always had in mind, the cost of operation and permanency and we believe that it is so planned that it can be operated at a minimum expense", said Harry G. Stevenson, a member of the board of commissioners of the Berger Hospital concerning its operation, in a recent interview.

Mr. Stevenson also stated that since it is constructed of steel and concrete with a very small amount of wood, he believes that it is so constructed that it will stand for many years before repairs will be needed.

Together with its strengthening materials which will keep it for years in the best of condition on the outside, it is also furnished with the best of equipment on the inside, and in fact Mr. Stevenson continues, the board has endeavored to make it what it is—the best hospital in the state for its size.

"It has been my greatest privilege, to serve as a members of the board and only hope that the public has been satisfied with our administration," concludes Mr. Stevenson.

pitals in Columbus are Frigidaire equipped.

The Berger Hospital is a very fine example of modern architecture, and has the most advanced equipment of all kinds, and the community has certainly a reason to be proud of this wonderful institution, which will be a great benefit to the city and county.

Ice Formation

Anchor ice is ice formed on the bottom of rivers and streams, adhering to stones, rocks or other debris. It occurs where the current is too swift for surface ice to form.

M. ROBERTSON ADDS TOUCH TO HOSPITAL

Superintendent Working Diligently To Make Things Near Perfect.

In a short interview with Miss Marie Robertson, superintendent of the Berger Memorial Hospital, she said that the hospital was a gem in a perfect setting, complete in every detail and worth the best efforts of the medical and nursing professions. She spoke of it as being a great blessing to the people of Pickaway-co.

Miss Robertson has had wide experience in hospitals, and her opinion is to be highly valued on this subject.

Since her arrival at the hospital all the finishing touches have been made there. She approves entirely of the artistic and pleasant interior. She herself has added many personal furnishings, which have added to the charm of the offices, and created a homelike atmosphere to these rooms, as well as to her own rooms and the nurses quarters upstairs.

Miss Robertson, who is bound to make friends with Pickaway-co residents, is quite professional, and at the same time has a feminine personality which together make her an ideal person for the responsible position which she holds at the hospital, where confidence means everything.

No amount of hard work and personal supervision has been spared by Miss Robertson in the organizing of the hospital forces, and with her at the helm it is the opinion of all that this large undertaking of Circleville has every reason for great success.

Arabia still contains mysteries. That vast wilderness of half a million square miles which the Arabs themselves call Rub-el-Khali or "Dwelling of the Void" is still unmapped. Who can guess what buried cities lie here, or what romantic stories of the past may be laid bare?—Exchange.

Fred Nicholas

Fred R. Nicholas, as true a friend to the City of Circleville as there ever was, has been clerk of the Berger hospital commission since Mayor Hedges was ordered by city council to provide a commission to plan the hospital. Every detail, everything that went through the hands of the commission which in any way dealt with the hospital, is on record in the office of Mr. Nicholas. Time, worries, and what not have been the lot of Mr. Nicholas since he took over the duties of clerk of the commission.

When anything was wanted, when any advice was needed that dealt with the record end of the institution, Nicholas was consulted and all that was needed was for the inquirer to name what he wanted and Fred had it ready. His books, turned over to the City Sunday, are as near perfect as man can make them.

B. T. Hedges

"I am proud of Circleville's Hospital. I have been glad to do all within my power as Mayor of Circleville, and as President of the Commission having the matter in hand as well as an individual member of the Community in the effort to establish it.

"It is my ambition to at all times advance and promote the best interests of the community I serve."

"This Hospital will be a considerable value to afflicted and suffering mankind."

"To the people of the community and to the Committee having the matter in charge goes the credit for the success of this project, made possible only by the generosity and whole heartedness of the people."

"I take this opportunity to congratulate and thank each and every one of you for your loyal support and the successful attainment of this worthy purpose."

X-RAY UNIT INSTALLED

The X-Ray unit at the Berger Memorial hospital was installed under the supervision of Dr. D. V. Courtright. The equipment includes the fluoroscopic screen and table for making examinations, and pictures of any kind.

The X-Ray table contains fluoroscopic and Bucky diaphragm and is adjustable from horizontal to perpendicular or any degree of these angles.

The X-Ray furnishings complete were purchased from the American X-Ray Corporation and installed by William Ball, an expert technician.

The storage room is fire proof, and only safety films will be used, to insure against any possible accident from fire or explosion.

FRIGIDAIRE

Equipment was chosen for the new Berger Municipal Hospital to insure perfect refrigeration of foods and supplies that will be used daily at this institution.

FRIGIDAIRE

Is the choice of the majority for all commercial and domestic uses — and being accepted as standard equipment for the Berger Memorial Hospital is one more proof of its supremacy.

All Patients Beds in the Berger Municipal Hospital are Equipped With Spring Air Mattresses

SPRING AIR

Restful Luxurious SLEEP is your surest GUARD AGAINST COLDS

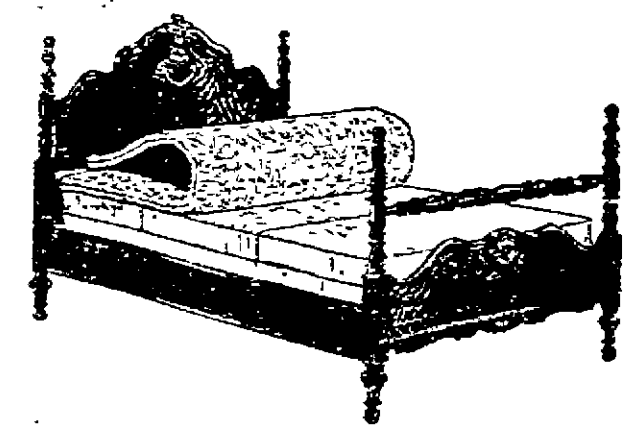

At no season does perfect, relaxed sleep mean so much to health as in winter.

Manufactured under Karr patents by the Master Bedding Makers of America.

The body that is rested is strong—and capable of resisting the germs of colds, influenza and similar winter ills.

For extra hours of the finest, most healthful sleep every night of your life there is nothing like the supreme sleep luxury of SPRING-AIR, the new and finer type of mattress made in the cushion assembly form.

This modern bed equipment — so buoyant, so light, so clean and sanitary — has displaced the old-fashioned stuffy mattress in the leading hospitals, sanitariums and hotels. It is rapidly becoming the favored bedding in the better appointed homes everywhere.

SPRING-AIR is offered in the new cushion assembly at $30.00. Your choice of four lovely new colors — orchid, green, blue and rose — artistically and exclusively patterned in genuine imported Belgian damask.

LABORATORY OF HOSPITAL HAS IMPORTANT FUNCTIONS

BY DR. LLOYD JONNES

The laboratory department of the Berger hospital is one of five or six main departments. It has many functions to perform. Among these may be mentioned:

1. Chemical analysis of blood, urine, and at times water and food products. Blood is analyzed to determine acidosis, sugar and other products which are often found in kidney disease and heart disease. Analysis of urine has become a daily routine in every doctor's office. In a city such as Circleville the laboratory of the City Hospital should be used, and no doubt later on will be used, by the city officials for the analysis of milk, water and food products, and anything which comes under the purview of public health.

2. Serological examinations of blood and blood serum and spinal fluid. These examinations are of great value in diagnosing syphilis, typhoid fever, and in matching blood for transfusions.

3. Bacteriological procedures. The laboratory is equipped to perform the full routine procedures which include the identification of smears from nose and throat and ears, from sputum, from pleural and abdominal effusions or from any infected source.

4. The identification of tissues removed at operation to determine the presence or absence of malignant growths.

5. The manufacture of vaccines and the various solutions used in the hospital for intravenous work.

The laboratory is equipped to make tests assisting in the diagnosis of gall bladder disease, stomach disease and in tests relative to the metabolism of the body showing whether or not energy is being used faster than it should be.

All these various types of activity on the part of the laboratory require a multiplicity of materials and equipment with instruments of precision. While the laboratory at the new Berger Municipal hospital is small it must be equipped and must perform practically all the duties of a laboratory serving a larger hospital. It has analytic balances, electric incubator, electric water bath for inactivating blood serum, Arnold sterilizer and electric hot plate, electric water still, electric hemoglobinometer, Dubosq colorimeter, Zeiss binocular microscope and all the chemicals and glassware usual to such a laboratory. The hospital is equipped with a microptome Spencer Lens Co., manufactured for sectioning tissue for microscopical examination. This instrument has a freezing attachment to permit rapid diagnostic work.

As the hospital is the place where the individual brings his health problems to be solved so the laboratory is one of the agencies at the command of the hospital for solving the problems of disease. The laboratory does not make diagnoses. It works for the physician to discover facts in regard to the disease; facts which the physician may use with other facts in arriving at a conclusion.

FRIGIDAIRE AT HOSPITAL

George W. Rogers Furnishes Refrigeration Needs By New Cooling Unit.

The refrigeration needs of the hospital are taken care of by a Frigidaire cooling unit, installed in a large McCray refrigerator. The large coil in the ice compartment of the refrigerator will freeze twenty three pounds of ice at one time in addition to keeping, an even temperature of approximately 40 degrees in the food storage compartments.

The even temperature kept by an automatic refrigerator is necessary for the best and most economic handling of foods for an institution of this kind. A large amount of food and more varieties of foods can be kept on hand. The inconvenience of ice refrigerators is eliminated, and ice cubes are always available for cooling drinking water and for ice packs when needed.

Many other uses can be made of the Frigidaire such as preserving blood specimens, keeping anti-toxins, and vaccines.

Scores of leading hospitals everywhere have turned to Frigidaire as the safest, most practical, and dependable method of keeping foods, and medical supplies.

Harry Stevenson

"In planning the Berger hospital, the board always had in mind, the cost of operation and permanency and we believe that it is so planned that it can be operated at a minimum expense", said Harry G. Stevenson, a member of the board of commissioners of the Berger Hospital concerning its operation, in a recent interview.

Mr. Stevenson also stated that since it is constructed of steel and concrete with a very small amount of wood, he believes that it is so constructed that it will stand for many years before repairs will be needed.

Together with its strengthening materials which will keep it for years in the best of condition on the outside, it is also furnished with the best of equipment on the inside, and in fact Mr. Stevenson continues, the board has endeavored to make it what it is—the best hospital in the state for its size.

"It has been my greatest privilege, to serve as a members of the board and only hope that the public has been satisfied with our administration," concludes Mr. Stevenson.

Famous Painting

The "Sistine Madonna" was painted for an order of monks whose convent was in the little town of Piacenza, Italy. From the altar of the church in this village the painting was taken to Dresden, where it continues to be on exhibition in the Royal gallery.

Mysterious Arabia

Arabia still contains mysteries. That vast wilderness of half a million square miles which the Arabs themselves call Rub-a-el-Khali or "Dwelling of the Void" is still unmapped. Who can guess what buried cities lie here, or what romantic stories of the past may be laid bare?—Exchange.

Ice Formation

Anchor ice is ice formed on the bottom of rivers and streams, adhering to stones, rocks or other debris. It occurs where the current is too swift for surface ice to form.

M. ROBERTSON ADDS TOUCH TO HOSPITAL

Superintendent Working Diligently To Make Things Near Perfect.

In a short interview with Miss Marie Robertson, superintendent of the Berger Memorial Hospital, she said that the hospital was a gem in a perfect setting, complete in every detail and worth the best efforts of the medical and nursing professions. She spoke of it as being a great blessing to the people of Pickaway-co.

Miss Robertson has had wide experience in hospitals, and her opinion is to be highly valued on this subject.

Since her arrival at the hospital all the finishing touches have been made there. She approves entirely of the artistic and pleasant interior. She herself has added many personal furnishings, which have added to the charm of the offices, and created a homelike atmosphere to these rooms, as well as to her own rooms and the nurses quarters upstairs.

Miss Robertson, who is bound to make friends with Pickaway-co residents, is quite professional, and at the same time has a feminine personality which together make her an ideal person for the responsible position which she holds at the hospital, where confidence means everything.

No amount of hard work and personal supervision has been spared by Miss Robertson in the organizing of the hospital forces, and with her at the helm it is the opinion of all that this large undertaking of Circleville has every reason for great success.

Fred Nicholas

Fred R. Nicholas, as true a friend to the City of Circleville as there ever was, has been clerk of the Berger hospital commission since Mayor Hedges was ordered by city council to provide a commission to plan the hospital. Every detail, everything that went through the hands of the commission which in anyway dealt with the hospital, is on record in the office of Mr. Nicholas. Time, worries, and whatnot have been the lot of Mr. Nicholas since he took over the duties clerk of the commission.

When anything was wanted, when any advice was needed that dealt with the record end of the institution, Nicholas was consulted and all that was needed was for the inquirer to name what he wanted and Fred had it ready. His books, turned over to the City Sunday, are as near perfect as man can make them.

MEMBERS OF MEDIC STAFF

Members of the hospital staff are the following physicians and surgeons, members of the Pickaway-co Medical Society:
